

Opening Holstein Herdbook Debated

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

If a cow looks like a registered Holstein, produces milk like a registered Holstein and, most importantly, is bred like a registered Holstein, is it a registered Holstein?

That's the question Holstein breeders across the country are asking themselves as a result of a controversial proposal to allow at least some grade Holsteins to achieve registered status in the herdbook of the nationwide Holstein Association.

The issue of "national identification," as it's been labelled by Holstein officials, is sparking heated discussions at regional, state and county meetings in the Mid-Atlantic area. It was the major topic at the Holstein Winter Forum in Culpeper, Va., March 7-8 and is expected to highlight the agenda at the winter forum for Pennsylvania and New Jersey breeders March 14-15.

These meetings, part of a series of winter forums the association conducts each year for members in various parts of the country, have become a kind of primary vote for proponents of the grade-up plan. Reportedly, feedback from these meetings will determine whether the association's board of directors puts the issue to a vote of the directors attending this year's national convention in San Diego.

As proposed by the "Holstein Identification Task Force" — a committee of 10 members appointed in June 1987 by Holstein Association president Kip Herzog — the grading-up process would involve four main steps.

Like the similar "genetic recovery" programs already in place among Jersey and Guernsey breeders, the Holstein plan would start with a grade cow that is manifestly Holstein in appearance, but whose

Dairy Of Distinction Seeks Applicants

WILLIAMSPORT — The Northeast's most beautiful dairy farms are invited to compete for this year's Dairy of Distinction awards. Dairy of Distinction applications are now available for the states of Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.

The purpose of the Dairy of Distinction program is to recognize attractive farmsteads. Farms are judged on neatness, good maintenance, and roadside appearance. The program is based on the theory that attractive farms can increase consumer confidence in the quality of dairy products.

All dairy farms producing milk for sale are qualified to apply for the award. Applications are available at all county cooperative extension offices, local farm publications, as well as through the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council (ADADC).

A number of awards will be made during 1988. The states of Pennsylvania and New York have

Multi-County Agents Setting Up To Aid Pennsylvanians

BY LISA RISSE

SCHAEFFERTOWN — The wheels set in motion last summer with the $5-million on-going appropriation from the Pennsylvania legislature to Penn State's extension system are beginning to pick up speed. Multi-county agents, a direct result of the funding, are being established around the state with a concentration of manpower in the south-eastern portion, Alletta Schadler told attendees of the 71st Lebanon County Extension Meeting.

"We're excited about the program. The concept of multi-county agents and teamwork is important," commented Schadler, who is the Lebanon County Extension Director on loan to the Berks County Regional Center and is responsible for helping to locate people to fill the new positions.

The appropriation, which was earmarked for upgrading the existing extension program as well as increasing staff, allows the extension

Acres Corn Update: Corn futures narrowly mixed from gains of 3/4 cent to losses of 3/4 cent. Pressure was attributed to an increase in movement and sales by C&D of 6 million bushels. Support came from yesterday's announcement of a 300,000 metric tonne sale to the USSR.
March closed up 3/4 at $2.01-1/2 while July lost 1/4 at $2.11.

Acres Soybean Update: Soybeans futures settled higher, but off session highs. Buying near the close was thought to be short-covering in front of tomorrow's USDA supply and demand reports. Further support came from ideas that the pit had become oversold and was due for a correction. Old crop beans were supported by tight supplies and good export demand, with upside potential limited by the upcoming South American onslaught. March beans traded in a 5 cent range and closed in the middle at $6.17, up 3-1/2.

Acres Wheat Update: Wheat futures closed from lower and at session lows as heavy selling by C&D Commodities pressured prices. Pressure on the opening was generated by lower-than-expected export inspections and ongoing concerns relative to the CCC auctions. March closed 4-1/4 lower at $2.99 while July lost 4-3/4 at $3.13-3/4.

Acres Cattle Update: Live cattle and feeder cattle futures closed sharply higher again this afternoon as prices were boosted by strengthening cash fundamentals with reports of sales at $71.50. April live cattle met stiff resistance at $72.40 but broke through and settled near the top. Buying was also attributed to advances in cut-out values. Spillover strength from the live cattle fueled advances in feeders but large gains were pared by lower trending cash prices.

FEEDER CATTLE SETTLEMENT
PRICE 03/04/88 $80.93 dn $.25.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK cash
-steady futures-steady to higher.

Acres Hog Update: Live hog futures settled from 8 to 42 points higher with buying featured on firming cash fundamentals and spillover strength from the cattlepits. Losses in pork bellies and ideas that cash hogs would trade lower tomorrow pared further gains. Buying enthusiasm was restrained by concerns over sulfamethazine residue levels in U.S. pork shipped to Japan. Bellies were pressured by speculation that the weekly out-of-town storage report would be higher than earlier expected.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK cash -
steady to lower futures - steady to mixed.

Delmarva Broiler-Fryer

Wed., March 9, 1988

Demand for ready to cook whole birds has slowed and was light and unaggressive. Seller offerings were adequate and slow in clearing. In the parts complex demand had also slowed on dark meat, particularly leg quarters which were difficult to clear. Cutlets were in fairly good balance while whole breasts were generally fully adequate. Wings cleared easily at higher prices. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 48 to 61 cents and several sellers were willing to negotiate on trucklot volumes in an effort to stimulate movement. Live supplies were generally moderate. Weights were mixed but mostly desirable. Slaughter schedules were reduced in spots and very light in total. The undertone was unsettled and about steady at best.

Alfalfa's Triple Crown.

Emerald, Maxim, Funk's G-2852. These hardy alfalfas from Hoffman will place you in the winner's circle with improved yields, exceptional stand longevity, and broad-based disease protection.

Emerald's the yield leader from start-to-finish. It has consistently bested Hoffman trials, while producing 5 1/2 percent better than average yields in New York and Pennsylvania state trials.

Maxim's a sure bet for exceptional stand longevity. And its two-year production average of 9 6 tons/acre will give you front-running yields.

Funk's G-2852 tops the field with some of the best disease resistance available. Backed by years of research, this new-comer has shown annual yield advantages of 1/2 ton/acre.

When you're looking for a winning alfalfa yield, call your local Hoffman seed representative. Or call Hoffman Seeds direct for more information about Alfalfa's Triple Crown.

Hog Producer's Farm Management Problem

The National Farmers Organization is asking all livestock producers in conjunction with the National Pork Producers Council to suspend the use of sulfamethazine products as a measure to protect the integrity of US pork products. Japan says that traces of the chemical were found in shipments they imported and the USDA inspectors are on their way to confirm the report.

So far no one is quite sure if this alleged sulfur contamination is merely speculation related to the beef and citrus quotas currently being debated between the US and Japan, but it has affected the pork and cattle markets.

Whatever the outcome of this "scare," there are two things to be considered from the event. First, sulfur residue is a producer management problem, and labels on feed additives should be read and followed explicitly. Whenever the additive is not needed, it should not be used.

Secondly, markets, especially the commodities market, have a way of jerking around these kinds of circumstances more than the event really justifies. The amount of pork exported to Japan is relatively small. But the downward pressure on hog prices in the past 60 days along with the increasing hog weights may present producers with a more realistic long-term problem than the "Japan scare." As NFO President, DeVon Woodland, says, "Producers must market their hogs at lighter weights and utilize good farm management techniques if we are to see this hog market rise."

NOW IS THE TIME

To Practice Safety Around Liquid Manure Pits

Many manure pits will be cleaned out at this time of year for field application. This by-product of the livestock and dairy business is very useful as fertilizer. However, the pit can be a safety hazard because of poisonous and explosive gases. When the mixture is agitated in order to be removed, these gases are more plentiful and much more dangerous. Good ventilation above the pit is very important. Also, anyone who goes down in the empty pit should be wearing a gas mask. These gases are dangerous and can be fatal to both humans and animals. We urge all farmers to caution their employees of this potential danger.

To Control Wild Garlic

We may like onions on our hamburgers and in other foods, but very few of us like onion-flavored milk. This can easily happen on dairy farms where wild garlic plants are allowed to grow. Many pastures are infested with wild garlic. One of the best times to start control measures on this weed is early in the spring when the young plants are 4 to 8 inches high. An application of 2,4-D will knock them down. Follow the label for directions. When this is applied around the middle to latter part of March, little damage is done to any legume in the area. If garlic plants are allowed to mature each year, the pasture area will become so contaminated that dairy cows cannot utilize the grass.

To Check Ventilation Systems

We are into the season of the year that ventilation is very important. The fans in our poultry houses and dairy barns have been working hard through the winter months. They have accumulated dust on the louvers and screens and developed loose belts, so they are less efficient—in other words they are not moving as much air as they are rated.

This is a good time to go through your buildings and clean the fan blades, the louvers and screens. Tighten the fan belts, and be sure to check the inlet screens. Many times, in our poultry houses in particular, we're not getting air circulation because the air can not get into the building. Clean these inlet screens so they are not restricting air.

Also, be sure to check the thermostats to make certain they are working properly.

THE GREAT BETRAYAL

March 13, 1988

Background Scripture: Matthew 26:1-35.

Devotional Reading: John 6:48-58.

Judas' betrayal of Jesus on Maundy Thursday is sometimes referred to as "The Great Betrayal." It is an apt description of what Judas did and even today after all these centuries we find it difficult to understand why Judas would have done what he did. We can perhaps understand, if not approve, that in some situations one might betray a friend, a colleague, maybe even a member of our family—but to betray Jesus, the Son of God, is beyond comprehension.

"Beyond comprehension," perhaps, but not beyond commission. We will never know why Judas betrayed the Master—greed, jealousy, lust for power, disappointment, a bid to force Jesus' hand—but something led this man whom Jesus had trusted and loved as his own brother to betray him in cruel and final manner.

Maybe it was none of the above. Perhaps it was something more subtle and complex—like the motives with which we must contend today. Might it have been that Judas simply wanted to be on the "right side" for a change? The "right side" of course, was the side of the great majority. It was the "respectable" side where all the "right" people were. Walking side by side with this dynamic prophet might have been exciting for a while, but maybe Judas decided that being in the minority wasn't to his taste in the long run.

SAFE & EASY

"That's no reason!" you may protest. But think a minute before you jump to conclusions. You and Poor ventilation can cause health problems in poultry houses and "off" flavored milk in dairy barns. This is a good time to take care of some of these inside jobs. To Control Mice in Orchards

Now that the winter weather is almost gone, our fruit growers should take a look at the newly exposed grass sod in their orchards. If there are runways at the surface of the grass, it is a good sign that there are plenty of mice in the orchard, even though a mouse baiting program may have been followed last fall.

The mice have used up their stockpiles of stored food and are now looking for a fresh supply. At this time of the year they will move quickly onto bark and roots of fruit trees.

Fruit growers should rebait their orchards as soon as possible if there are fresh mouse signs.

I find it relatively easy and safe to identify ourselves as Christians today. No one wants to lock us up or run us out of town because of it, do they? No one is keeping us from getting ahead in our place of employment or profession because of it? Being identified with Christ doesn't mean more taxes, social rejection, persecution, or risk of life and limb. So, not denying our Lord hardly costs us anything.

Let's assume, however, that tomorrow all that would change. Starting tomorrow, because of your identification as a "Christian," you will be demoted at your place of employment, your children will be taunted and abused in school and in the neighborhood, and you'll be shunned in your neighborhood, and members of your own family will feel embarrassed because of your insistence of trotting off to church every Sunday. Wouldn't it be a lot better if you denied being a Christian and managed to practice it in private where no one could possibly know? Who could ask for anything more?

SECRET DISCIPLESHIP?

As a matter of fact, Jesus could—and does! "Secret discipleship" is a contradiction in terms. Actually, many of us don't really keep it a secret, but neither do we go out of our way to let it be known, either. We don't mind people knowing that we attend this church or that, but we often demonstrate with what we do and say that we don't take our religion all that seriously. We try to demonstrate that which doesn't keep us from being part of the mainstream. So, our betrayal of Christ may be more subtle and hidden, but is it any less real than that of Judas?

When the disciples began to ask, "Is it I, Lord?", they raised a question that each of us must ask ourselves every day of our lives. The "Great Betrayal," as far as we are concerned, is not that of Judas, but of all of us who one way or another deny him in what we say and do.

Better Beans. Better yields. Better get some.

We're convinced that these beans are the best we've ever developed. Plant some and see for yourself. We think they'll convince you, too.

3981 Versatility has made this late Group III variety one of the top performers in the Pioneer lineup. It can be planted on a variety of soil types, and generally maintains good yields on the soils. 3981 has a 2.5 bushel per acre yield advantage over Williams. Additional traits include: bushy plants that work well in wide rows, high podding characteristics, very good shattering resistance and very good field tolerance to most races of Phytophthora Root Rot.

NEW 9361 You'll be looking at an impressive new soybean variety with this excellent mid-Group III variety. 9361 also offers high yield potential, strong emergence and early vigor. Good tolerance to Phytophthora Root Rot is another desirable feature of 9361. Because of its smaller seed size each unit goes a little farther at planting.

9391 As a new late Group III variety, 9391 is the yield leader. It has a wide area of adaptation and performs well under many growing conditions. 9391 gets out of the ground quickly, has good standability, and is resistant to Races 1-3 and 6-11 of Phytophthora Root Rot. It also has good field tolerance to other prevalent races. Smaller seed size and better seed quality gives 9391 additional advantage over the popular 3981 variety.

INTRODUCING FOUR WAYS TO MORE PROFITABLE FORAGE.

1. Fresh Dry™ HAY CONDITIONER

Chemical conditioning improves your odds of beating the rain by cutting your drying time in half. Fast, even drying means you can cut and bale more hay at peak maturity, for increased yield, higher protein content and greater profitability (Effective on legumes only)

2. Field Fresh™ HAY PRESERVATIVE

Now you can bale from dawn to dusk. Because our 80/20 blend preservative permits safe baling at moisture levels up to 30%. Proven to save time and money, Field Fresh improves profit potential by increasing dry matter recovery as much as 15%.

3. Silage Fresh™ ENZYMATIC ADDITIVE

Our new, 25% more concentrated enzyme group controls fermentation faster, by quickly reducing heat and pH. Water soluble and easy to apply, it ensures enzyme activity throughout the ensiled matter for maximum quality and optimum feed efficiency.

4. Silage Fresh™ BACTERIAL INOCULANT

The newest in forage preservative technology, our water soluble inoculant supplies the beneficial bacteria needed for fast and efficient fermentation. It improves silage digestibility as well, resulting in increased production and profit per ton of ensiled forage. Economical, a 200 gm jar treats 50 tons of silage.

Many Hearing Problems Can Be Helped.

Chicago, IL—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the most popular canal hearing aid in America today will be given absolutely free to anyone who sends for this free model now.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample, send your name, address and phone number today to: Department 82605, Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wed., March 9, 1988
Trading had slowed down and was light to occasionally fair. Cutlets were clearing satisfactorily and an increased number of sellers were having better success at 1.80, but others were still only getting 1.75. Breast availability has increased but has not reached a point where discounting was a factor. The demand for legs, and more so leg quarters, has lessened and supplies were generally adequate. Wings were tight and buyers paid the higher prices without hesitation.

Make Hardy Brand® your hybrid. Make every kernel count.

"Hardy corn is great! It does a great job of husking, and it's always nice and green, and it stands well. Our 300 acres are all Hardy. Why, some folks say, 'my gosh, I never saw corn like that!'"

Tom McConahy
Volant, PA

"Hardy comes out on top compared to the others. Hardy 760XS is a good shelling corn, yields terrific and stands great. The 370XS short season is a tall corn, and shells so easy, you can hardly hear it go through the combine."

Dave Moore
Boonsboro, MD

"I've been with Hardy for 10 years. We get a lot longer grain with Hardy 370XS, and it really shells great. And Hardy has a better stalk than most I've seen. It's great looking corn, why it really sells itself!"

Roy Hoffman
Richfield, PA

Multi-County Agents

sion network to fill some of the positions that had become vacant due to a lack of funding on state and federal levels. "The staff was allocated according to where the people are and where the agriculture is," Schadler explained. "And a good portion of that happens to be in the southeastern part of the state."

Approximately 19 multi-county agents are slated to work in Southeast Pennsylvania. Some of the positions have been filled with several agents in place already and others beginning work in April and May. The first agent to fill a position was LeAnna Wheeler, who is based in Chester County. She is a resource-management agent who will be working with families in Chester and Delaware counties to help them make better use of their resources.

Bruce Kreider, a farm management specialist, will begin work on April 1 and be based in Lebanon County. He will cover Berks and Dauphin counties as well. On the same day, John DeFassio also will assume his position as farm management specialist. Based in Lehigh County, he will go to Northhampton and Schukyll counties.

Nina Redding and Eleanor Garis, home economists, will deliver programs in Adams and Franklin counties. Part of a county pair-up plan, each will specialize in specific areas, developing programs, and sharing information and programs. Redding is based in Adams County, while Garis, formerly with the Adams County extension, has transferred to Franklin County.

The multi-county family resource management/family strengths agent, Rebecca Wolf begins her duties on March 15. She will be based in Lehigh County and travel to Northhampton County as well.

On May 1, William Kliener begins working with people in Adams, York, and Franklin counties. His specialty is fruits, and he will be based in Adams County. Patricia Huff, a family living/resource management agent, also starts work on May 1. She will travel throughout Dauphin, York, Lebanon, and Cumberland counties.

Schadler reported that if all goes well, a poultry agent and a farm management agent will start work within the next couple of months.

Both agents will be based in Lancaster. The poultry agent also will go to York, Adams, and Lebanon counties, while the farm management specialist also will serve Chester County.

Several positions are as yet unfilled with a search being conducted for qualified people. Schadler listed two housing and environment specialists; a resource management agent to cover Montgomery, Bucks, and Berks counties; and a water quality agent for York, Cumberland, Adams, Lebanon, Franklin, and Dauphin counties as the main positions yet to be filled.

"We hope that by summer we'll have people for these positions," Schadler said.

Schadler and her associates have high hopes for the new multi-county agents, believing that it is a trend whose time has come. But, they also are realistic enough to know that they'll have their share of wrinkles to iron out. "It's not going to be without growing pains," she predicted. "We'll have to build teams. But we'll build a team that will deliver a stronger, meaningful program."

Opening Holstein Herdbook

sire does not have to be known. This foundation cow would have to be properly identified and a minimal fee would have to be paid ($1 has been suggested).

Female offspring of this cow, if sired by a registered Holstein, are eligible for registration under Step 2. Identification of the sire and a higher fee (perhaps $4) would be required. Step 3 would entail a repeat of the previous step.

Female offspring from registered sires and Step 3 dams would qualify for Step 4 registration, the first to include provisional status in the herdbook. Such animals must be enrolled in the association's classification program and, as cows, in the official Dairy Herd Improvement testing program. These animals would carry a "QE" designation — for qualified entry — in the herdbook. The cost of registering them would be the same as that for registering other Holsteins.

Finally, all male and female offspring of these QE cows would be eligible for registration in the herdbook without a suffix. Only Step 4 animals are required to be alive at the time registration is sought.

Not surprisingly, the proposal has struck a sour note among a number of members. Critics have accused Holstein Association staffers of supporting the plan solely as a means of boosting income. They have claimed allowing grade bloodlines into the registry would expose the breed to some of the deleterious recessive genes registered breeders have taken pains to avoid.

In a recent letter to Holstein World magazine, the directors of the Manitowoc County, Wis., Holstein organization blasted the task force plan as dangerous, unfair to current members and likely to lower the price of registered stock. They said approval could cause a boycott of association programs by disgruntled members.

Several participants in the recent annual meeting of the Maryland Holstein Association were equally outspoken. Brian Osborne of Cecil County, Md., said, "If we register grade Holsteins, it would be a disservice to all registered breeders in the nation." Both he and Bob Knutsen, also of Cecil County, said allowing others a short-cut to registered status would devalue the time and money they spent developing all-registered herds.

These criticisms and others also were voiced at the Culpeper meeting, where task force member David Slusser, a Crawford County, Pa., dairyman, made a case for opening the herdbook.

Slusser, who is president of Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, said giving some grade animals registered status would increase membership in the association, broaden the base of animals available for genetic progress, help the finances of Holstein organizations and expand the market for registered animals — all arguments made in the 14-page report produced by national association staffers and included in the thick packet of material given to forum participants.

He also noted that the Holstein Association is the only major dairy breed registry that has not initiated a grade-up program in recent years. The report extensively quotes the leaders of these other breed groups.

However, Slusser's main argument involved the issue's implications for the future of a changing industry. At a time when several bull studs have turned to sampling grade bulls, a market heretofore reserved exclusively for registered breeders, Slusser said some changes are needed. Reportedly, grade cows account for 85 percent of all domestic semen sales.

"From here on, we're in a different ballgame," he said. "And, if we don't do something, we could wind up playing second fiddle."

Later, he asked, "Do we have to have a grade Valiant before we do something?"

Slusser also claimed that some grade dairymen have a lot to offer their registered counterparts in the areas of both type and production. "I've seen some herds of grade cows with udders on them I'd love to have."

Moreover, the widespread use of semen from registered bulls already has made many grade cows the genetic equivalent of registered ones, he said. For instance, the genetic component of an animal that has been bred artificially for four generations — the minimum requirement in the task force plan — is at least 94 percent registered.

But Slusser did not go unchallenged at the meeting. Jason Myers, a Carroll County, Md., breeder, said he is not worried about registered breeders losing their genetic edge over the industry as a whole. Nor is he convinced, he said, by the testimony of scientific studies that say grade Holsteins are genetically equivalent to registered ones.

Other forum participants were troubled by the fact that the proposal, as currently written, does not impose any restrictions on the quality of the grades allowed to register. Slusser said he opposed the imposition of such criteria, arguing that financial considerations will restrict entry to top-quality animals.

Marlin Hoff, another Carroll County breeder, said the price tags for the grade-up process have been set too low. As a result, it may encourage dairymen who now register all their calves to let the papers lapse and use the grade-up process to re-register only their promising animals. "To me, it's a slap in the face to the guy who registers all the time," he said. Slusser acknowledged the current version of the task force plan is not without flaws. He said he hopes some changes will be made before a decision is made, hopefully at the 1989 convention. But he urged those at the forum to support the concept in principle.

Few of the Culpeper participants were willing to do so publicly. Nonetheless, Slusser said he is optimistic that many association members, particularly those with mixed herds — part registered and part grade — eventually would support it.

The results of an anonymous straw poll of forum participants appears to back this contention. Those in favor of a grade-up program in principle outnumbered those opposed 23 to 17.

Maryland Jerseys

long event was held in New Midway with a full agenda addressing milk marketing, youth and senior member recognition, and plans for the 1991 AJCC National Meeting to be co-hosted by the Maryland and Virginia Clubs.

Representatives from Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative, and Dairymen, Inc. were invited to address the group of high-solids milk producers on possible component pricing programs. In the past few months several breeders have started receiving a protein premium for their milk through a program offered by Dairymen, Inc.

This has touched off discussions about such programs within other cooperatives on eventually petitioning to change the federal order dictating prices in Order 4. Any such change would require a combined effort by these three cooperatives.

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, March 12, 1988-A21

Ernest Yates, Director of Field Services for the Mid-Atlantic Division, Dairymen, Inc., outlined the protein premium that Dairymen implemented on November 1st. This milk is going for cheese manufacturing to Jefferson Cheese Company, Hagerstown, Maryland. There is presently 60,000 pounds of 100 percent Jersey and Guernsey milk on the load, every two days. All extra shipping and testing costs are evenly divided among the shippers on the load, so there are no costs to any other Dairymen shipper.

A protein premium of 12 cent per point over 3.2 percent is paid for milk with less than 500,000 SCC. There is a graduated scale for SCC counts above that. Protein tests are taken three times per month and averaged.

Stated Yates, "We think this program is very fair. The people on this load pay all the extra costs and still are netting 50-59 cents per hundred weight additional in there milk check. There's room here for all the high protein milk we can take."

James Reeder, Director of Member Relations, Maryland-Virginia Cooperative, noted that he was there to listen and learn. Maryland-Virginia is presently testing all its herds in March to determine their protein and solids-not-fat levels. Reeder related that once these figures have been compiled and analyzed, Maryland-Virginia will then determine its position on any changes in its pricing system.

James Fraher, Economist, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, related that they are working from a positive delegate action which requested them to pursue a multiple component pricing system. In response, Atlantic is proposing a possible change in the Federal Order which would be revenue neutral, that is it would not at this time add more money to the pool, but re-distribute existing monies.

Under Atlantic's program, to determine an individual producer's base price, you would multiply the producer butterfat and protein tests by producer butterfat and protein/skim prices per pound and add the base milk differential price per CWT. Utilizing solids-not-fat in the formula creates a less dramatic change from current prices than utilizing only butterfat and protein.

Stated Fraher, "As we view this, let's not view it as a producer to producer issue, but as a marketing issue. It is our policy at Atlantic not to offer a premium to any of our members if we can't offer it to all our members."

During the Business Meeting, the program turned to award recognition. Several youths received $125.00 scholarships from the Club to be used for their continuing education. Those youths receiving scholarships were: Lisa Burdett, Karen Stonesifer, Janet Stiles, Susan Heath, and Scott Staley.

Crowned the 1986 Maryland Jersey Queen was Mindy Johnson, Damascus, Maryland. She succeeds last year's Queen, Tonna Caple.

The meeting was dedicated to the memory of Mr. Hansen, a prominent Maryland Jersey breeder, who passed away this past January.

Outstanding Holstein Youth Gets Involved

BY BETH N. GRAY
Bedford C. Correspondent
LOYSBURG — Sarah Ann Baker's schedule reads as if she's trying to make up for all the young people who don't get involved, a fact about others for which she feels badly. The 1988 Bedford County Outstanding Holstein Youth, named at the annual banquet of the County Holstein Club here last week, said, "There are a lot of ways for people to get involved. It seems like most youth don't want to get involved."

The 18-year-old daughter of J. Allen and Norma Baker of Bedford, RD4, has been building her registered Holstein herd since she first joined the Friendly Moo-Moos 4-H Club at age eight. She recently joined the newly organized County 4-H Dairy Judging Club and says she's looking forward to involvement in a Youth Dairy Bowl, if the tentative project should get underway. She also belongs to the County 4-H Teen Club.

The senior at Bedford Area High School is a full-fledged worker at Allenor Holsteins, owned by her parents. She arises daily between 4:30 and 5 a.m. to ready the barn for milking, to feed the calves and to bed the cows. In the winter she helps to hay cows in the evening, cleans the milk tanks and finishes odd chores. And in the summer she helps with haying as well.

All are experiences that Baker appreciates. In her essay that helped her earn the "Outstanding Youth" title, Baker wrote: "Farming is always challenging and a stimulating experience for me. I look back on all the years of growing up on a farm and it fascinates me to know that I have seen a beautiful life created and brought into this world as a calf."

As the young woman has built a family from her original calf, Allenor Sun Lisa, she's won reserve champion female at the Bedford County Fair five times. A disappointment has been the lack of a grand championship.

"That's what I'd like to get this year," she noted. Another disappointment has been an abundance of bull calves. Her cow family today includes Lisa plus her daughters Allenor Citation Lin and Allenor Belle Linda plus Linda's offspring, Allenor Tora Lydia.

Baker is conversant in DHIA numbers and classifications. All of her cows have classified Very Good. Their most recent records: Lisa, a 5-year-old: 20,338 lbs. milk and 694 lbs. butterfat; Linda, a 4-year-old: 17,000 lbs. milk and 563 lbs. butterfat; Lin, a 3-year-old: 19,500 lbs. milk and 712 lbs. butterfat; Lydia, a 2-year-old: 15,300 lbs. milk and 624 lbs. butterfat. "They're a good family for milk production," she said, yet added that she'd like to bring in an out-of-family female for her 4-H effort this year.

She expects to be able to show the new animal to a 4-H'er from the South. Baker is looking forward to hosting an exchange 4-H'er for a week during the coming summer. Last summer she herself visited a Kansas 4-H family for a week, after serving as hostess at Allenor the previous summer to a Kansas 4-H'er.

She did all that amidst two successful seasons learning cooperative enterprise. In 1986 she advanced from the county to the regional and to the state Institute of Cooperative Education sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association of Farm Cooperatives. At the latter she was chosen to take part in the American Institute of Cooperative Education at Knoxville, Tenn. Last summer she served on the scholar staff for the PAFC institute.

Baker is likewise busy at school where she has lettered on the track team, is secretary and treasurer of the local chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving, is a member of chorus and its elite group, the Varsity Singers. She also serves as a library aid and is an honor roll student.

As a community service effort, Baker helps conduct a weekly story hour at the public library for pre-kindergarten children. She teaches Sunday school and is lector at her church.

The Allenor farming enterprise includes 150 registered Holsteins in milk— "three are Excellent and more than 30 are Very Good," Baker notes — and some 600 acres of owned and rented land in corn, alfalfa, mixed grasses and soybeans. Her father has won honors as Pennsylvania's best alfalfa grower in four years since 1982.

The young woman is undecided about her career. "I have so many interests and there are so many things to do," she says. Her agenda spells it out.

Census Counting On Farm Operators

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Farmers and ranchers — have you returned your 1987 Census of Agriculture form? The U.S. Census Bureau says the form was due February 1. If you haven't, the bureau asks you to please take a few minutes to complete it.

Use your best estimates if you don't have the information in your records. Return your forms to the Census Bureau even if you did not grow any crops, or have any livestock, poultry, or other agricultural products in 1987, so the bureau can correct its records.

If you have questions or need help filling out your form, call the Census Bureau's toll-free number, 1-800-233-6132. Indiana residents should call 1-800-233-6135. You also can obtain help from local offices of the Cooperative Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, and vocational agriculture teachers.

The census shows how farmers in each county stand today compared with five years ago — how they are doing compared with farmers in other counties. It provides a picture of the number of farms, farm size, production, sales, and the financial health of agricultural producers. The agriculture census, an unbiased accounting, gives a clear picture as to changes that are taking place.

This picture of the agricultural production industry is studied by both the public and private sectors to help chart the future. Here are some examples:

- Farm organizations use the facts to plan programs and evaluate legislative proposals.

- Congress uses the census of agriculture data for evaluating and developing legislation.

- Farmer cooperatives use county-level agriculture census numbers to evaluate the need for grain elevators, and other services to farmers and ranchers.

- Feed manufacturers use agriculture census livestock numbers to define their market potential down to the county level and to determine equitable dealer territories.

- The U.S. Department of Agriculture uses agriculture census data in estimates of farm income and other economic indicators for the farm sector.

- The Farm Credit Administration uses agriculture census results to formulate and evaluate farmer loan programs.

NEW! (2.24M) 88-INCH (7'4") PULVI-MULCHER

This 88" Pulvi-Mulcher was originally designed for the European market, to meet transport limits. However, this new width has found a home among American operators who have limited width requirements... like truck farmers, nurserymen, fruit and vegetable growers.

Like its Big Brothers, this "88" crushes, harrows and conditions the soil in one pass for better seedbed and bigger yields. It has all the features of other "M" series Pulvi-Mulchers. Separate levers control depth of each of two rows of spring teeth. May be equipped with notched or Crowfoot rollers, with conventional spring teeth or vibrating "S" tines.

FROM PLOWED GROUND TO FINISHED SEEDBED IN ONE PASS

The Brillion Pulvi-Mulcher crushes both surface and buried lumps finishes and firms the seedbed in one operation converts fall or spring plowings into clod-free seedbeds. The firmed mulch, free of hidden air pockets holds moisture in the entire seedbed, particularly at the root level to assure faster germination puts more nutrients close to the growing plants. A flick of the tractor hydraulic control lifts the Pulvi-Mulcher to its carrying wheels - ready to hit the road. Raising the machine at waterways or headlands is equally easy

Save More Than Half Your Seed

MORE SEED GERMINATES ... YOU GET A POSITIVE CATCH

With a Brillion Sure-Stand agricultural seeder you sow all seed within the top 1/2 inch of the soil uniformly, accurately in a firm well-worked seedbed where moisture comes up from below and the seed is close to plant nutrients. In this way every seed has a chance to grow. You can predict good stands of grasses and legumes with seeding rates often cut to nearly half of the rates previously used. In many cases, the savings in seed alone will pay for a Sure Stand seeder with just a few days' usage.

Don't risk another crop failure. Don't settle for half a stand. Depend on the Brillion to produce a "Sure Stand" time after time.

AVAILABLE IN 5, 8, 10 and 12 FOOT SIZES.

Atlantic Kempton Local To Meet

SOUTHAMPTON — The Kempton Local of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative District 1 will hold its annual dinner meeting March 22 at 7 p.m. at the Virginville Grange Hall.

Don M. Breiner, Atlantic's field and lab services manager, will be the guest speaker. Breiner will report on cooperative business and milk quality issues.

We Can Improve Your Egg Shell Quality

Researchers have been telling us since 1892 that limestone — 38%+ calcium feed grade limestone — is necessary to maintain optimal shell quality. Then, in the early '70's, researchers found that if the fine limestone was supplemented with a larger particle size calcium source, the shell quality of high speed layers could be maintained even better.

YORK CALCIUM CHIPS were developed in the late '70's as the dependable and economical source of calcium for the modern layer.

Since that time, continual comparisons by universities, research centers and egg producers have confirmed the benefits that poultrymen receive when they add YORK CALCIUM CHIPS to their laying rations.

For improved shells and lower feed costs, have your feed supplier add "CHIPS" to your formula.

Dairy Meetings Called To Boost Milk Checks

CAMP HILL — Should Pennsylvania dairy farmers set their own milk prices?

"We must," said Roy Romberger, an official with Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency, in announcing meetings on over order pricing next week in Berks, Lebanon, Lancaster and Chester counties.

RCMA's director of market relations sees time running out on Pennsylvania dairymen.

"Just how long can we wait for USDA or dealers to take action on plummeting milk prices?" he asked.

We can blame cuts in support prices, Romberger points out. And we can waste a lot of time wondering what the price of cheese milk in Minnesota and Wisconsin has to do with Class I prices in Pennsylvania, he said.

Neither makes much sense to Romberger. Not for Northeast dairymen of handlers faced with a milk shortage. Not when 70-cow dairymen in Pennsylvania will see milk checks shrink by $8,300 in 1988.

But the RCMA official says he does have an answer — over order pricing. RCMA has set a fair market price of $14.45. And have asked dealers and handlers to meet it, using milk premiums to make up the difference between RCMA's and the federal order's Class I price.

Such over order pricing will be among the major topics on the agenda at the March meetings, he said.

It's not a new idea, either. According to Romberger, dairy farmers in 30 major U.S. markets now receive such premiums. RCMA happens to be one of the biggest bargaining agencies with 22,000 members in 11 northeast states.

"It's farmers working together to get a fair price," Romberger emphasizes. "It works."

"In the Chicago federal order in January," he pointed, "over order pricing gave producers a $1.91 Class I premium. We could do the same here. This spring."

Local dairymen also will have a chance at the meetings to learn first hand about membership options, non member marketing agreements and the Farmland diversion, he added.

The four new meetings include: Berks county - 1 p.m., March 14 at Berks County Ag Center, Route 183, Leesport.

Lebanon county - 1 p.m., March 15 at the Lebanon County Courthouse, 400 South 8th Street, Lebanon.

Lancaster county - 8 p.m., March 15 at the Lancaster County Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

Chester county - 1 p.m., March 16 at Russellville Grange Hall, Routes 10 and 896. Russellville.

Agricultural Land Preservation Meeting

Several weeks ago, a meeting was held at the Brecknock Township Municipal Building where a representative from the Lancaster County Agricultural Preserve Board explained the concepts of how Agricultural Areas are created. Guidelines of the Pennsylvania Act 43 while enables landowners to propose the creation of agricultural areas were explained.

Wednesday, March 23, 1988, at 7:30 p.m. a follow-up meeting will be held to present proposed sketches of 500, or more, adjoining acre plots to be considered as agricultural security areas. This meeting will be held at the Brecknock Township Municipal Building in Fivepointville.

Any person interested in learning more about how incentives to encourage farming and to discourage development in declared agricultural areas and/or proposed areas for Brecknock Township, is invited to attend.

Jersey Genetic Recovery: Your Tool For Improvement

FEBRUARY, 1988: Do you have any unregistered, purebred Jerseys? If so, there is a program designed to help you upgrade your herd and improve your dairy operation.

Since 1975, Jersey dairymen across the country have been using the Genetic Recovery Program to identify and record their unregistered, purebred Jerseys. Over 95,000 Registered Jerseys have resulted.

Genetic Recovery Jerseys have topped sales across the country, won top honors at major shows, made outstanding production records and produced young sires that have been samples by major AI bull studs.

The program is as easy as 1, 2, 3! Your unregistered Jersey cow sired by an unknown bull or by a grade Jersey bull will become the Original Animal and carry the OA prefix on her name. A dead cow that was sired by a Registered Jersey bull but who has living daughters in the herd can also be an OA. The OA fee is $5.00.

In step 2, the daughter of an OA sired by a Registered Jersey bull is eligible for the Provisional Register and will carry the PR prefix on her name. The PR fee is $7.00.

If the PR cow meets certain production and type qualifications, her daughters are eligible for step 3, Genetic Recovery, and will carry the GR prefix. Cows with the GR prefix are fully registered. The GR fee is the minimum for registered Jerseys.

For complete information, proper forms and FREE assistance, write or call: The American Jersey Cattle Club, P.O. Box 27310, Columbus, OH 43227-0310, (614) 861-3636.

Yules Pride Farm Reaches Long Term Goal

BY HELEN KELCHNER
Columbia Co. Correspondent
BERWICK (COLUMBIA CO.)

— Richard and Virginia Yule of Millville, Columbia County, have reached a goal they set out to attain 17 years ago. At the Pennsylvania Holstein Convention in Lancaster last month, Yules Pride Dairy received the Progress Breeders Registry Award. This is national recognition from the Holstein-Friesian Asso. of America.

In order to qualify, applicants must belong to DHIR, have a 75% home-bred herd with a DHIR average of 21,481 lbs. milk minimum, 768 lbs. butterfat and a BAA of 103.4 percent. The Yule herd is more than 75% home bred, has a DHIR average of 22,686 lbs. of milk with 783 lbs. butterfat and a BAA of 106.5 percent.

Virginia and Dick feel this is a very prestigious award, one which they had set out to capture early in their farming career. They just missed it in 1980 because of their relocation from New York state to Pennsylvania when their home bred stock dropped because of their farm sale.

The Yules farmed 300 acres in New York with 200 head of cattle and a $200,000 machinery investment, Dick was overworked with a heavy investment and was not doing what he wanted. That was to improve his registered Holsteins. His dream was to cut out the farming and concentrate on the herd.

In 1980, Yules had the opportunity to sell out -- lock, stock and barrel with the option of retaining some of the best head for seed stock. The move to Pa. was a gamble. The Yules weren't sure they could pull off their dream of working exclusively with a dairy herd.

Dick said they chose their Millville site for several reasons. First, the farm had small acreage. He intended to purchase feed and bedding allowing him more freedom to develop the herd. Second, he needed a location convenient to available feed sources. Third, he looked for cattle merchandisers within a reasonable distance. In addition, he felt the area had the right atmosphere of competition to present a challenge. Also, Yules did not overlook the warmer climate. Their former farm in Herkimer County, New York was once described as "eleven months of winter and one month of poor sled-din". Dick recalls losing a crop of corn to a snow storm in the middle of June.

The move to Millville was not without its shortcomings. The farmhouse had only three bedrooms and the Yules still had five of their seven children living at home. A wing addition to the house was a priority.

They explained the hardest part of the move was the stock they left behind, a direct result of 19 years of herd development and one of the top herds in Herkimer County. The Yules were able to make a compromise with the buyer in which they brought 36 calves and 12

Randy Sones grooms Houghdale Rarae Phoebe. She was a Very Good 86 out of Elevation when Yule purchased her in February 1987. With a year of Dick's feeding program, she has reached a 25,450 lbs., 4.4% with 1056 B.F. and her index has increased to 91.

milking cows with them to Pennsylvania. Although their best stock went with the selling deal, they were fortunate enough to bring out calves from some of their best head which gave them an edge in their reorganized venture. At that time they had just gotten their foot in the merchandising door and the move to Pennsylvania gave them the incentive to refine their business.

The present herd consists of 51 milking head and 50 head of young stock. The herd average of 22,686 lbs. with 783 lbs. butterfat gradually increases as herd improvement methods take affect. For instance, these numbers are up from 19,264 lbs. with 685 lbs. butterfat just four years ago.

An example of a 10 year old that has benefitted from the improvement method is Killdee Van Bess sired by Rosemere Fury Ivan. Bess, an excellent 93 is the highest in butterfat production of Yules herd. Just 4 years ago she had 29,309 lbs., 4.4% test, 1295 B.F. and a BAA of 113 percent. That has increased currently to 35,480 lbs., 4.4%, 1364 B.F. and a BAA of 114.7. Bess had been in a flushing program for foreign markets. She ranks among the nation's top butterfat producers.

Another outstanding cow is Tops-Up Ginger Spirit, Excellent 92. She is a 10-year-old with records up to 24,700 lbs. 4.5 test and 1090 lbs. butterfat. She was the 100,000 lb. cow at Bloomsburg Fair in 1987. Her embryos have been exported to France, Germany and England. She has a very good 86 daughter, Yules Pride I Jon Sonya- E T whose embryos were bought by Germany.

Sire Power purchased one of Yule's bulls, Yules Pride Elevation Ace, which scored 89. Ace was top sire for Sire Power in his heyday between 1977 and 1979. This was prior to the Pennsylvania relocation. Dick had several of this bull's daughters which a group from Germany viewed at the New York farm.

The German group was so impressed that they took a substantial supply of Ace's semen back home with them. Then, last summer the group made a return visit, this time to Yule's Pennsylvania farm to view the present herd. They brought along a photograph of one of Ace's offspring, a daughter which is doing a super job for them. They were well pleased with the Ace progeny and the Yules were equally pleased to learn of the positive results. Yule's embryo exports run 70 to 80% successful. They have also had three yearling bulls and one two-year-old purchased by Russia.

Dick has a feeding program which he credits for his improved production figures. The herd is fed dry hay and high moisture corn with protein supplement. He says his mix of 1/2 each soy bean meal, distillers and whole cotton seed is the basis of his improved butter fat. The whole cotton seed, a high energy ingredient, is the factor that makes the difference. While some dairymen find its use controversial, Dick says you've got to give it a chance. When he first tried it, he, too, didn't notice any difference, but he stuck with it. After 3 or 4 months, he felt his cows took on a "blush". He can only describe it as a signal when the butterfat began to increase.

Over the past several years, Dick has reassessed his value of a cow. The USDA index for production gives a cow only about one and a half lactations "life". After this peak period, many dairymen following the index numbers get rid of the cow. Dick feels the index is important, but only as a tool used with other factors. He can't see a 3-year-old high-producer not growing into an 8 or 10-year-old cow which not only continues substantial production, but which has the capacity for providing calves and embryos for marketing.

Dairymen can get carried away with index numbers and what happens is they end up with prime stock having a productive life average of 3.4 years built from index on top of index on top of index. Although this can impress some markets, Yule has experience which shows otherwise.

Dick likes to look at cow families. He purchased Houghdale Rarae Phoebe at the State Convention sale in February 1987. She was a Very Good 86 out of Elevation, not an impressive index by today's standards to attract competitive merchandising. But, her mother was a 12-year-old with high production and tests and she had two maternal sisters that are excellent with good milking fat. Last year Phoebe's production reached 25,450 lbs., 4.4% with 1056 B.F. and her index increased to 91.

What has pleased Dick about this cow is that after the German group that visited his farm to view the herd had studied Phoebe's family, they ordered embryos from her because of her type rather than her index. Phoebe is still a productive cow at age 6. Dick is concerned that young farmers starting out will take the Holstein Red Book too seriously. If they use the basis of high production for 2 and 3 year olds which aren't around as old cows, what have they accomplished?

The Yule philosophy is that if the cow can pay for herself in one or two years, then hang on to her-- let her produce calves and embryos along with milk and allow her to be financially productive to age 8 or 10. Indexes make "good looking" cows, but which in many cases burn out too young, while "types" provide cows that can work even as aged stock. This is where the cow's family history is valuable.

Dick says, "A two-year-old with a 16,000 lb. production which becomes a 25,000 lb. to 28,000 lb. producing age cow is of more value financially, than breeding that

Dick with His 3 yr. old bull, Yules Pride Spirit Master, son of Sunny Craft Chief Spirit and My Kinda Aprils Milkmaid, an excellent cow which Yule still has in his herd. This bull was judged Excellent at 2 yrs. 10 mos. Dick chose to keep the bull on the farm and prove him under his care. He has produced outstanding heifers.

Chester Extension Programs Cross Audience Lines

BY MARJORIE KEEN

Chester Co. Correspondent

WEST CHESTER — When the

Chester County Extension Service gathers in West Chester for its annual meeting Monday, April 11, it will show the county a beefed-up staff and a clear sense of direction.

"We invite the public to focus on the total extension program," says Trudy Dougherty, County Extension Director and Home Economist. "More of our programs are crossing audience lines. We're still working in agriculture and family living and 4-H, but we decided there are particular areas we need to highlight."

Dougherty cites the water quality testing and financial profitability programs Dairy Agent David Swartz held last year. "The water quality program was a general appeal for people who have their own wells," Dougherty explains. "And you'll see programs that target good record keeping. It may be a dairy meeting but it will focus on record keeping."

Laurie Sicko Sandow with 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club.

Livestock Agent Cheryl Fairbairn shares responsibility for crops with Swartz. Fairbairn's expertise is in beef, sheep, swine, poultry, horse and pasture management. A number of the Chester Countians Fairbairn works with are part-time farmers, according to Dougherty.

Fairbairn helped organize the Chester County Sheep and Wool Growers Association. Starting in 1986 she brought together lamb producers and county restaurateurs. Last year Fairbairn and Dougherty taught home economics teachers to use lamb and wool in their classroom programs. "I think in 1988 we'll see another aspect in marketing," Dougherty says.

While Fairbairn is on maternity leave, longtime 4-H Leader Pat Taws is substituting for her. Taws is chairman of the committee that is building the county's first 4-H center.

Laurie Sicko Sandow serves as 4-H coordinator. In 1987, 1,125 4-H members, ages 8-19, were enrolled in 1,588 projects. Volunteer leaders in the county numbered 222.

"One of the things that we have spent a lot more time on is working with some of the urban areas," says Dougherty. "Our family living projects have always been popular in all areas. They've done pet care, and the Seeing Eye Puppy program has been a real highlight. We have 4-H clubs in community centers in West Chester, Coatesville and Lincoln University. Instead of a parent being the volunteer leader, it will be one of their staff."

Camp Carefree, the Easter Seal camp, and some of the other county camping programs have 4-H components, according to Dougherty. The 4-H Livestock Petting Zoo at Kimberton Fair helped to explain farm production animals to urban youngsters.

Extension Home Economist Leanna Wheeler began working in both Chester and Delaware counties from the West Chester base early in January. Her work primarily focuses on family finances. "When you talk about family resource management," Dougherty points out, "it's looking at each family as a business."

Mushroom/Horticultural Agent Sam Steel joined Chester County Extension's professional staff February 1. "Sam has extensive experience in agriculture and horticulture," Dougherty declares. "He's worked in two states in Extension."

"We'll be adding a Farm Management Agent in the very near future, who will be shared between Chester and Lancaster counties, and that person will be housed here," Dougherty adds. "We're doing some learn-at-homes now where people update themselves at their leisure."

Sixty families completed the "Managing in the 80's" series in the past year.

Three program assistants who are home economists work part-time in special areas: 'Safe Slimming'; 'Culinary Hearts'; sewing workshops, answering phone calls on a whole list of topics. Four nutrition advisors, one bilingual, work with limited resource families primarily in Coatesville, Oxford, Lincoln University, Toughkenamon, Kennett Square and West Chester. Master volunteers teach sewing and knitting.

Part-Time Horticultural Assistant Betty Styer spends six hours weekly fielding questions. Although she has moved from the county, Nutritionist Martha Plass Sheeche continues as menu consultant via her home computer.

"People are very interested in nutrition. Any program that we do related to nutrition or fitness fills a need," says Dougherty. In her role as Extension Home Economist, she conducts a popular workshop on seafood buying and preparation. The National Association of Extension Home Economists presented Dougherty with their Distinguished Service award in 1986.

"In addition to the program work that I do, I have the responsibility for supervising the professional staff and coordinating the office," says Dougherty. "We all work with the Extension Board of Directors. They accept the funds from the County Commissioners that provide our office space, secretarial help, supplies and agents' travel.

Bucks County Dairy Day

Bucks County Dairy Tour will be conducted through Lackawanna, Wyoming, and Susquehanna counties on Saturday, March 19. The bus will leave the Doylestown Corporate Center parking lot, Cross Keys, Routes 611 and 313 at 7 a.m. sharp.

The first stop will be at Lee Courtright's farm in Clark Summit, Lackawanna. He is milking 33 cows in a stanchion barn with a rolling herd average of 15,500 lbs. of milk with 550 lbs. of butterfat. Presently milking 5 Chairman daughters and is enrolled in Sire Power's L.A.M.P. program. He farms 200 acres, 60 acres in corn.

Second stop will be Leroy Sand's Farm in Tunkhannock, Wyoming County. He is milking 86 cows in a tie stall barn. Rolling Herd Average 21,500 lbs. milk, 746 lbs. fat. Feed haylage, corn silage, and coarse hay. Farms 120 acres of corn for silage and 250 acres for hay. Uses calf hutches and then an open shed for young stock. He is milking two Ned Boy daughters and one is projected at 22,000 lbs. of milk as a 2-year-old.

Lunch will be at the Fireplace Restaurant in Tunkhannock, courtesy of Sire Power, Inc.

After lunch, we will visit John Castrogiovanni and Sons in Montrose, Susquehanna County. This is the home of "Castlemont" Holsteins. RHA on 144 cows is 19,510 lbs. of milk, 710 lbs. of butterfat, with a BAA of 104.4 percent. Nine cows are Excellent. They feed corn silage, haylage, high moisture corn and hay. The milk cows are in a tie stall barn with the heifers and dry cows in two recently completed free stall barns. They farm 508 acres and have sent nearly 20 sons into AI including Spencer, Saber and Sheldon at Sire Power, top cow is Castlemont Ijon Sue Ellen who has been flushed for ET's by Jetson, Ned Boy, and Tradition.

Our last stop of the day will be Decker Brothers in Montrose, Susquehanna County. They milk 194 cows with a RHA of 17,000 lbs. of milk. All the milk cows are in tie stalls and are milked in a parlor. They are thinking of converting to free stalls. They feed haylage, corn silage, and high moisture corn in TMR. Farm is about 700 acres and they rent 700 acres more in rental ground. They use almost 100 percent young sires in their breeding program and haven an original Ned Boy daughter who is springing and might be fresh when we visit. Their herd is mostly grades with some registered ani animals.

The cost for the tour is $12 per person and includes the bus, lunch and Sire Power hat. Bus will return at approximately 6:45 p.m.

Make reservations by March 15 to Ben Landis at 215-766-8034 or Roy Carter at 215-493-6704.

"My responsibility is to work with the board and work with the commissioners and be the liaison between the two. We are encouraged to look for grants and unique opportunities to expand. I have found that the administrative work has gotten more demanding."

Federal and state funds join with county money to support the service. To help offset diminishing federal funding, the state appropriated an extra $5 million this year.

When she joined Chester County's Extension staff in 1973 Dougherty never expected to become Director, a position traditionally assumed by the Agricultural Agent. Since becoming one of the first female county directors in 1981, she has presided over both growth and change, with greater need for a multi-disciplinary approach toward a variety of audiences.

In 1983 Chester was the first county Extension office in Pennsylvania to use computers. Not only does computer technology aid preparation of the 56 newsletters regularly sent out, it is used in record keeping and teaching.

"With the dairy herd buyout decision," Dougherty recalls, "people were able to come in, put some key information in the computer and do an evaluation as to whether or not they should be applying for this."

The statewide Extension Task Group Dougherty chairs targeted three areas of direction for the future: using new data-based systems for decision making and overall management in a technological society; making Penn State a Center of Excellence; and working with other institutions that have information.

Extension work presents an interesting challenge to the County Director. She finds that there is so much to each of the agent's fields, it never really gets stale. "They are a very vivacious group," Dougherty concludes.

Extension: The Way It Was In Chester Co.

BY MARJORIE KEEN

Chester Co. Correspondent

With $18,000 allocated by the Pennsylvania General Assembly in 1913, agricultural extension agents were set up in Chester, Lancaster and Bradford counties. The legislature also authorized county commissioners to appropriate up to $1,500 annually to support extension work.

In the fall of that year Chester County secured a Pierce Arrow motorcycle for the use of its first extension agent, Charles F. (Charlie) Preston.

The following spring the county put in potato plots to measure responses to different types and amounts of fertilizer. The agent presented lessons to rural school teachers on testing clover and corn seed and grafting fruit trees. The teachers were, in turn, to demonstrate these practices to their students.

Even though the 4-H clover became the national emblem of boys' and girls' club work in 1911, the term "4-H" was rarely used in Pennsylvania. The very first reference in an extension agent's report was made in March 1914 by Chester County's Charlie Preston.

Also in 1914 Preston took on the job of teaching members of the girls' canning club how to preserve their vegetables. Because of their complete unfamiliarity with a home canning outfit, he reported, it was necessary for him to assist, especially in the manner of soldering tin cans.

In a later report Preston stated, "While I have personally eaten these beans and consider their product a fair quality, it was thought by Mrs. (Nelly) Snyder that on account of the lack of blanching and in some cases incorrect soldering, it would be wisest to destroy the whole lot (of some 200 odd cans)."

Chester County Extension began early to involve local leaders in the home economics program. A recognized expert on canning, cooking and household matters, the wife of an executive committee member gave a Saturday canning demonstration in 1914.

The next year Preston reported that 65 had attended a three-day apple grading and packing school at the large Darlington Strode orchard in West Chester. He also met with peach growers from Chester and Delaware counties to explore cooperative marketing. And Preston did some grafting of European walnut scions on black walnut stock.

In its community improvement role, Preston's office became headquarters in 1916 for the movement in favor of a women's restroom in the county seat.

Attempting to increase food production during World War I, the county agent started war school gardens in West Chester. He also secured for Chester County four tractors made available by the state Department of Agriculture. All four were kept busy throughout the 1918 season and two were still in use for fall plowing.

By this time Charlie Preston had been reassigned as assistant professor of farm organization extension at Penn State.

Chester County's livestock extension program was built around a livestock industry that included breeders' associations for poultry, trotting horses and heavy draft horses.

The Chester County Plan developed in 1920 carried the slogan, "Better Bulls and Boars Build Bigger Bank Balances." The U.S. Secretary of Agriculture was present at a picnic to kick off the plan, described as "the most important agriculture meeting ever held in Chester County."

Two recent books from The Pennsylvania State University give fascinating glimpses into Extension's early years: Cooperative Extension; How It Began in Pennsylvania by Frank Zettle (1986) and The College of Agriculture at Penn State by Michael Bezilla (1987).

Egg Cholesterol

ress Day here last week, McCharen said that it looks like new facts will show there's no reason for the general public to restrict egg consumption because of cholesterol.

While the standard of 300 milligrams of cholesterol per large egg has been the standard, McCharen expects the new figures to come in at about 240 milligrams. At that level, even a treatment diet for high blood cholesterol will allow three egg yolks per week. Some of the reason for the optimism has been the recent tests by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture to confirm or disprove claims of low cholesterol in eggs from Lancaster County producers.

"We've known for a long time that the USDA data was based on weak research done in the 1940s. Now not only has the analytical chemistry changed, so has the egg industry. In fact, there's no basis for the quantitative recommendations for dietary cholesterol. It's intuitive," McCharen said.

For some reason 300 milligrams per day was picked and everyone started to repeat the figure. McCharen said the Egg Nutrition Center works with health professionals in nutrition education, works in supermarket on consumer education, works with media relations, and conducts research.

When the final figures are in, McCharen said she believes they will have a new major news story.

In another topic during the day-mostly Canadian, but which are really American sires sold to Canada: Hilltopper Warden, Hanover Hill Starbuck and Kingstead Valiant Fab. Also, an American bull, Bearpath Fantastic.

Dick Yule has practiced a life-long method of improving his work and making life interesting. He sets goals. When he attains one, long session, Mitchell Woodward, Nutrition Management Specialist, said excess manure management is something we are going to continue to be faced with if we are going to farm as we have in the past. Woodward said profitability and safety were two major concerns. He discussed the farm nutrient management plan that uses computer programs developed by Penn State University to help balance the more nutrients with crop needs. "That's really how we are going to control the excess problem," Woodward said.

Woodward said that over 70% of the soil tests that come from Lancaster County have excessive nutrients. As the nutrient level increases, Woodward said the possibility of the profitable response to fertilizer application decreases and the possibility of ground water contamination increases.

Dr. Hugh Johnson, Director of Poultry Department, American Farm Bureau Federation, discussed the animal welfare movement and said the group wants to eliminate animals from food, research and pleasure. Johnson listed the media, legislative action and the legal defense fund as methods this group uses to oppose agricultural animal programs.

This Sixth Annual Poultry Progress Day was sponsored by the Education Committee of the Lancaster County Poultry Association and the Penn State Extension Service.

he sets another. This probably started as early as kindergarten. He accompanied his father to a cattle sale at that early age where his father bought a registered breeding bull. That registered quality stuck with him. As he got older, he set his mind on owning registered cattle.

When he was in fifth grade, he skipped school one day, rode his bicycle 14 miles to a cattle sale where he bought a registered heifer with his savings. He led (or tried to lead) the heifer home behind his bicycle. The task was not an easy one and he was spotted by a state trooper. The trooper made a call to Dick's home to an unsuspecting mother not aware of her son's "school day" activities. His mother's wrath was properly administered, but the calf was bought and taken home to his residence which at that time was no longer in a farm setting. The only shelter available was the garage.

The heifer created a whole new family life for Dick and his parents. Weekend trips were made without Dick who had to stay home to care for his stock. But, he showed the calf and purchased other calves. Eventually, he had acquired five head in the garage. When he reached age 13, he got a job on a farm, took his small herd with him and made the farm his home until he got married. This was 1962. His small herd had grown to eleven. He bought an additional 30 head and he and his new wife Virginia went into farming. That was 26 years and seven children ago.

The Yule children have helped on the farm as they were growing up, but only 16 yr. old Dan works on the farm at present. One other of the children, Dottie, has gone into farming with her husband in West Winfield, N.Y.

Darline, 10, and Daphne (both at home) are in 4-H. Both showed calves at the 1978 Bloomsburg Fair. Darline was first in Class and 2nd in open for Sr. calf. Daphne was 2nd in class for yearling.

Dave Yule is working locally and Diane just finished college majoring in the field of human services. Another daughter, Debbie has remained in New York with her family.

The Yules travel all over Pennsylvania to attend Jr. Holstein Asso. Conventions. Dick acts as advisor to this group. There are nearly 1800 members statewide. The Yules have been very active with young people. They were 4-H leaders for four years prior to this recent advisory post.

Last October, Dick took on a full time helper, Randy Sones. Along with son Dan, the two can manage the farm on occasions when Dick and Virginia attend conventions and other related meetings which may take them away for several days.

With all the pressing duties Dick and Virginia seem to accomplish, they also find time for hobbies. Each winter Dick tries to make some piece of furniture for the house. Last year it was a cherry corner cupboard. This winter he's working on a pair of oak end tables. Virginia enjoys wooden craft construction. She also paints. One of her attractive pieces hangs in her kitchen, a scene of the Yules farm reproduced on a replica of a cross cut saw.

Dick has already set his next goal -- to have a 1988 Progress Breeders Award added to his bronze plaque. If past experience has any value in attaining this award or in the effort put forth toward that end, the dairy industry can only benefit from Yules Pride Farm's dedication.

farm community: "Increase Farm Profits Through Energy Management."

Planned conference workshops include such topics as field machinery operations, cost cutting for milking parlors, ventilation improvements, low input farming, and farm energy production with photovoltaics.

Pre-registration is required and information is available through the Pennsylvania Energy Office (PEO) and local county extension offices.

Bergland was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives from his home state of Minnesota in 1970, and was re-elected in 1972, 1974, and 1976. After election to a fourth House term, he was asked to serve as President Jimmy Carter's Secretary of Agriculture, the first farmer to hold that post since 1940.

From 1981 to 1984 Bergland was president of Farmland World Trade, a subsidiary of Farmland Industries, the nation's largest farmer cooperative, headquartered in Kansas City, Missouri.

As chief executive officer of the NRECA, Bergland holds dual responsibilities as executive vice president to the NRECA board of directors and general manager of the association's staff.

In addition to representing the NRECA membership's policy positions on legislative and regulatory matters before congressional committees and executive agencies and departments, Bergland directs a wide range of NRECA programs and services for its members, including publications, management consulting, insurance and retirement programs, and an international development program which provides technical assistance in rural electrification to 30 developing nations.

The Lancaster conference is one of four such events scheduled for March. The other three will be held in Greensburg (March 22), Meadville (March 24), and Wysox, Bradford County (March 28). Sponsors are the PEO, state Department of Agriculture, PA Farmers Association, PA Farmers Union, State Grange, and Penn State's Cooperative Extension Service.

The perfect tool for ridge and minimum till

The Fuerst harrow cleans ridge tops, creating excellent seedbed. Unique "Spreading Action"® tines hug the soil at faster speeds to shred and evenly spread no-till stalks in the spring.

Dozens of uses:

The harrow used behind a disc or cultivator, incorporates herbicides in one pass. Used alone, it covers broadcasted seed, renovates, maintains pastures and more.

The harrow/cart (an optional harrow carrier as shown) follows tight turns, has folding wings for easy transport. Harrow and cart are available in 16 to 42 ft. widths.

"I believe the harrow works as good as a stalk shredder; it lifts and shatters the stalks and yet doesn't tear up the ground."

POULTRYMEN...

Increase Your Profits By Reducing The Temperature In Your Poultry House.

RC Automatic Controller System

During hot summer months the worst enemy of a poultry grower is heat. High temperatures cause stress on his poultry, during prolonged periods of high temperatures he can loose many thousands of birds in a very short period of time.

RC Fogger Nozzles are designed to produce a fine mist that acts as air conditioning in a poultry house.

Cooling poultry in hot weather by fogging or misting is recognized as being the most effective means for reducing stress, thereby increasing the efficiency of feed conversion and reducing mortality. By far the most economical method to accomplish cooling in the poultry house is the use of fogger nozzles.

RC Cooling Nozzles are designed to spray a fine mist inside the poultry house, when used with fans and booster pumps the fine mist will evaporate in the air before it reaches the floor.

If you want to reduce the temperature in the poultry house, if you want to save your birds there is nothing on the market today that will give you the total effect that you need to save your birds!

There is no comparison between the RC-4025-2 Fogger Nozzle and any other means of cooling.

WE GUARANTEE THAT!

Dairy Cattle Judging Contest At Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK — The Penn State Dairy Science Club will be holding its annual Spring Judging Contest on Saturday, March 26, 1988, at the Ag Arena. In the past, nearly 300 people have participated in this event. The majority have been Pennsylvania 4-H and FFA members. This contest provides these members with valuable judging experience. It also gives Penn State Dairy Science Club members an opportunity to meet future Penn Staters.

The contest consists of five divisions: Sr. 4-H, Jr. 4-H, FFA, Collegiate Amateur, and Collegiate Professional. Each county 4-H team and each FFA chapter will be allowed a maximum of 8 contestants. The junior 4-H division will be open only to 4-H members under 14 years of age as of January 1, 1988. Any 4-H member may judge in the senior division though. There will be an entry fee of $3.00 per person, which covers the cost of the meal of the day of the contest and the cost of mailing the results. For late entries, the day of the contest, an entry fee of $4.00 per person instead of $3.00 will be charged. This fee should be mailed with entries. Please submit entries by March 21, 1988.

This year's judging contest is co-chaired by Brent McMillen and Mike Reardon. McMillen is a senior majoring in dairy production, while Reardon is a sophomore also majoring in dairy production. Anyone who wants to enter a team should submit their entries to McMillen at the following address on or before March 21:

Brent McMillen, 203 Borland Lab, University Park, PA 16802. When the entries are submitted the division, team members names, coach's name, and a return address and phone number should be included.

The judging contest is an integral part of our Annual Dairy Exposition. The Exposition is a dairy cattle fitting and showmanship competition between students. Special events such as milking contests, calf dressing, and milk chugging are held at lunch time on that day. This year's Dairy Exposition will be held on Saturday, April 23, with the awards banquet being held the same evening. The awards for the judging contest will also be presented at this banquet. There will be 4-H and FFA teams from across the state at this judging contest, so we extend a warm welcome to all teams in the state.

30 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

-Lancaster Stock Yards ranked twenty-fifth in the nation in the number of salable receipts during 1957, according to figures released by the Agricultural Marketing Service.

-The declining farm population is resulting in a shift in legislative support for agriculture, according to Dr. James Honan, assistant general manager of Inter-State Milk Producers Cooperative.

-With brucellosis testing completed in Lancaster and Bradford counties and the announcement this week that Cumberland County has been certified brucellosis free.

-Scientists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture want to buy several pairs of identical-twin calves of beef type for nutrition and breeding studies at the USDA Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, MD.

-A group of Lancaster County farmers were in Washington, D.C., this week to talk to Congressman Paul Dague about legislative problems affecting farmers of the area.

Those from Lancaster County attending the Washington meeting were J. Roy Greider, R1 Mt. Joy; Henry Shreiner, R2 Lititz; Noah Kreider, Sr., R2 Manheim and John Weidman, R2 Mt. Joy.

Revived grass and rising prices were not sufficient to turn cattle numbers upward during 1957, according to the latest figures from the federal department of agriculture. The inventory of cattle and calves on U.S. farms on Jan. 1 of this year showed a decline for the second successive year.

Skating To The Top

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LANDISVILLE — When Carol Lee Shirk first moved to the Lancaster County, she accompanied her husband Glen Shirk, the county extension dairy agent, to a 4-H roller skating party. Since Carol had never skated before, Glen, a more experienced skater, wasn't especially thrilled with accompanying his wife on skates. Five years later, he still doesn't like to skate with Carol. But his reasons have changed, for Carol now skates circles around him.

This novice turned pro has twice won the regional figure roller skating title, which propelled her into national competition. She has placed seventh in national competition, and she doesn't plan to retire until she has captured the number one spot.

Carol claims she doesn't have a natural knack for skating. What she does possess is determination—lots of it. "I've worked a lot of hours," Carol said. "A lot of the younger kids can't understand my dedication," she said as she recalls her commitment to classes both in dance steps and in figure skating. But Carol knew that since she has had a late start compared to the average competitive skater who begins practicing in childhood, she had a lot of catching up to do.

Actually, when Carol began to take classes, she didn't foresee that it would become her one consuming interest. "Everything just sort of happened," she says. During one of the teaching sessions, Herven Mann, an experienced dance skater, wandered over and joined Carol in a dance. Her teacher and the audience were enthralled and despite Carol's protests of inadequacy, both her instructor and dance partner propelled her into perfecting her dance skating and later solo figure skating.

Carol confesses to being extremely shy. She said, "My mother still can't believe that I skate in front of crowds, because I've always been so timid."

Although she captivates audiences with her intricate dance steps, the shyness has not left her. "I still get scared," Carol admits. "Just let me see a judge with a pencil and I'm terrified. It's as scary as speaking before a crowd. You try to block everyone else out and try to remember all you've been taught, but sometimes nerves just take over and you make mistakes." Carol doesn't believe skating in front of judges will ever get easier for her.

But if, Carol is scared, she generally hides it well and carries out her routines with dazzling skill. "It seemed like a long time before I got any medals," Carol recalled. "I'll never forget the first time—I felt terrific." Each medal since then advances her another step.

Carol's success has surprised

Carol Lee Shirk and her dancing partner Herven Mann dominate the roller skating competition in Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

From novice to roller skating champion in five years, Carol Lee Shirk has won more trophies and ribbons than she can count. Last year, she placed seventh in national competition.

1987 UNITED STATES CHAMPIONSHIPS

Four large scrapbooks track Carol Lee Shirk's roller skating achievements.

even her. She said, "I didn't expect it at all." She paused then added, "Sometimes I wonder how far I could have gone if I had started skating when I was a kid. It's so much easier for kids to skate. They don't fear falling and they don't have as far to fall."

Carol admits that her 38 years limit her. There are some competitions that she can't enter due to her age. Nonetheless, when her skating experience is compared with the average skater, one realizes what an amazing record she holds.

Her skating highlight has been making it to the nationals. "I never thought I'd see that," Carol admits, the thrill of it still lights her face.

Carol refers to much of her life as before and after. Before skating she worked in a Chiropractic's office and sold her handicrafts such as wood burning at craft shows. But after six months of skating, Carol took the plunge, quit her job and put her efforts into perfecting her skating skills.

Seldom has Carol found skating frustrating. She did hit a low point at the 1986 National competition when she skated "a bad figure." She explained, "I had put a lot of hard work into it, hoping to do my best." After the disappointing event, Carol took three months off because "I needed a break."

When she started skating again, it took her several months to regain her former skill. "It's challenging," she said. "I'm constantly learning more advanced dances."

During competition, Carol seldom watches other skaters. "You can pick up bad habits by watching and we each have our own unique style. Pros teach differently." It's that difference, Carol believes, that

(Turn to Page B4)

Skating divisions are divided into groups by age. When Carol started she needed to skate against people who had been skating since childhood. This meant she needed to work extra hard to catch up and surpass them to win her seventh place national standing.

Skating To The Top

has helped give her an edge on competition.

"I'm lucky," Carol said, "I have a good pro. I hit that by luck because when I started out I just wanted to learn to skate, not compete. But I've been with the same pro ever since."

Despite the speed and the skill that Carol demonstrates at the rink, she has never been seriously hurt by a fall. "I had a broken finger, but nothing that kept me from skating."

Not only has skating changed Carol's life by giving her a feeling of accomplishment and encouragement but it also has developed her sewing skill since she always designs and sews her own outfits.

Carol credits her mother with having taught her sewing. Carol's perfectionist tendencies are not limited to skating but also her sewing techniques. On one outfit, Carol spent 34 hours handstitching yards of sequins that later needed to be replaced with other trim since they did not show up from a distance. Currently, Carol is branching out into sewing skating outfits for others.

For anyone contemplating entering skating competition, Carol advises, "Just go out there and be yourself. Although it's easier to start when you're young, it's not impossible at any age."

Carol ought to know. Look what she's accomplished.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Down through history, nearly every culture has included certain rites of passage.

Many had a relationship to the maturing person, in the form of physical or mental endurance "tests" to show readiness for adulthood and the accompanying responsibilities -- and privileges.

In some tribal civilizations, young men had to prove their mettle in survival, going off alone, to meditate, to find an inner strength, to prove their courage and capabilities. With this day of equality, our modern "rites" apply pretty much across the board. But they still call forth courage, determination and a chance to prove emerging abilities.

And it still holds true that behind nearly every youth dueling with a rite of passage lies a mother with crossed fingers, hope and maybe more than a little bit of uneasiness.

So it was when they took their first steps. Spent their first night away from home. Got on the big yellow school bus the first day. Went on a first big date.

Most times, a good part of the parental apprehension lay in the fact that we couldn't go with 'em. They went across to a sort of Other Side, an unknown place beyond a barrier, while we remained behind. Another rip toward shredding the apron strings.

All this ran through my mind last week while I sat in the muted gray-blue waiting room of our local state police barracks.

For more than 15 years, since he learned that he could make motor sounds by pursing his lips, gurgling, and pushing a toy tractor across the floor, the family baby had been eagerly awaiting this particular rite of passage.

Application for his driving permit. Which sooner (he hopes) or later leads to that treasured piece of adulthood -- an official motor vehicle operator's license.

A small, unassuming room, this outer office nearly crackled with the tension of the dozen or so, some viably nervous, soon-to-be drivers. Some came hesitantly, scanning the hand-lettered, instructional directions hung on the wall. Around others hung a more confident air, a sure sign that they'd played this scene before.

"Lungs at work -- no smoking" said a red sign patterned after the familiar highway "stop" sign. Only frivolous concession to the ongoing lineup of folks waiting their turn was candy-and-gum machine. Chewing, it would seem, helps calm the jitters.

About once a minute, a voice, seemingly from nowhere, would burst into the room, booming, "Next!" Some applicants sprang from their chairs, trigger-ready as their turn came up, to charge into battle with this challenge. Others almost dragged away from their chairs, with a nervous grin or glance at accompanying parent or friend. All eventually departed to that mysterious Other Side, beyond the heavily-textured, opaque glass-windowed door.

After about the tenth booming "Next!," our six-foot-tall "baby" slipped beyond the opaque glass.

He had "crammed" up until this last moment, hastily reviewing signs and rules on the 20-minutes ride from home. I, meanwhile, squirmed uncomfortably, wondering why in the world my car's right turn signal had chosen this particular trip on which to malfunction -- a nasty trick it had never before pulled.

Meanwhile, interspersed with the "Next!" commands, those who disappeared earlier reemerged from the Other Side. Some wore the broad smiles of success; others returned less cheerful, shaking their heads as they left, making whispered, frustrated, explanation to friends or parents.

Though brief in reality, parental waiting through rites of passage makes minutes seem like forever.

And, it's just the beginning. Waiting for the sound of a car returning home late at night will no doubt seem even longer. The grin on his face as he returned from the Other Side told me so.

CHELATION THERAPY

THIS MAY BE YOUR ANSWER TO: Heart Problems, High Blood Pressure, Poor Circulation, Arthritis, Diabetes, Leg Cramps, Numbness, Tingling, Cold Hands And Feet & Atherosclerosis.

All of these conditions may be helped by Golden Pride Formula #1. This aids in removing approximately 50 detrimental factors including lead, mercury and calcium deposits from the arteries. It also lowers triglycerides and cholesterol.

This chelated formula called Golden Pride Formula #1 is available in a pleasant-tasting form containing honey, royal jelly, bee pollen and the chelating agent EDTA. Start to erase years of damage to your system. Good nutrition can alleviate many health problems. The following are just a few testimonies of persons using Golden Pride Products.

Dear Golden Pride:

After having 3 operations for plugged arteries... 3 years later having open heart surgery with four bypasses.. 6 months later a heart attack (using).. all the medication and nitropatches #10, I still couldn't walk too well or lift my arms above my shoulders. I started to get liver spots on my hands and arms. I am 69 years old. I was warned about doing nothing but walking. I was talked into trying Golden Pride Formula #1 by a Golden Pride Distributor. I started with one teaspoon a day. Then about 3 months later I noticed I could walk better... my liver spots went away and also no angina pain. I then starting taking 2 teaspoons a day. I started making things in my workshop without pain about 3 hours a day. Now 10 months later I can raise my arms straight up with no pain. I have put a new floor in my kitchen, even painted it. I can climb ladders and clean my eave troughs by myself. Yes, I am very happy with Golden Pride!

Lawrence Burnett

Dear Golden Pride:

In 1979 my health started to deteriorate rapidly. Between that year and 1983, I had been to eight doctors... was sent to a hospital... for tests and in 1984 was finally diagnosed as having severe Rheumatoid Arthritis. By this time I had bandages on my feet and knees and 3 times daily I applied frozen vegetable packs to them to ease the stiffness. My hands were crippled and I could do nothing without help! I had to be lifted in and out of any vehicle. I was so sick from medication and ready to give up. My ninth doctor assured me that if I didn't fight this disease, I would be in a wheelchair in two years. And so I began!

In 1985 I found a... doctor who taught me the effects of good nutrition. I knew I had a long way ahead of me in rebuilding my system, but with God's strength, I knew I could do it!

In February of 1986, I was given the name of a chiropractor who used... a series of treatments intended to dissolve the excess calcium within my badly swollen joints. I also had a severe sciatic problem. Slowly I started to improve.

In August of 1986, I was introduced to Golden Pride products. They are all drug free and formulated to help countless problems. The main ingredient was to do the same job within as the (doctor's treatment) did on the outside. This was just what I was looking for. My doctor approved wholeheartedly!

Within a few weeks, my swelling went down, my sciatic problem was so much better, my energy level started to return, and my skin actually regained its color. I can now write with a pencil, lift my arms over my head, wear shoes again and do many of the simple tasks that most people take for granted. My fingers have even straightened out! Just recently my doctor has given me permission to rollerskate! Many thanks for the prayers of those who cared, also my sponsors and Golden Pride.

Goat Milk Brims With Nutrients

To most people in the United States, milk is synonymous with cow milk. Yet on a world wide basis, there are more people who drink milk from goats than any other animal.

Goat milk has a more easily digestible fat and protein content than cow milk. Consequently, many people who can not tolerate milk in their diets find that goat milk is easily digestible. Doctors often prescribe goat milk for those who have allergies or ulcers.

Goat milk is naturally homogenized. The protein value for goat milk is similar to a cow, but goat milk does have greater amounts of vitamin A, riboflavin, niacin and some B vitamins.

Jacob and Jane Fisher, who raise 60 milking goats on their Manheim farm, noted that goat milk must be cooled quickly since sanitation is important. The Fishers operate one of the few dairy farms in the area. They report that there is a real demand for goat milk, especially in large cities where ethnic groups prefer goat milk and specialty items made from it.

Loyal goat milk uses have submitted the following recipes which promise to add flavor and variety to menus. Try them.

COTTAGE CHEESE

- 1 gallon fresh goat's milk
- 1/4 rennet tablet
- 1 tablespoon cold water

Heat the milk to 100 degrees. Dissolve the rennet tablet in the water and add. Stir a few seconds, take off the heat source and let stand undisturbed for 1 to 3 hours until a firm curd has formed.

Now you are ready to make your cheese. Looking down at the cheese from above, cut, with a long knife, slots first in one direction then at right angles about an inch square. Reach completely to the bottom of the pan of milk. Then start from the side of the pan and make diagonal cuts, first from one side and then the other. You now have cubes of cheese.

Now stir gently with a spoon while you heat the curd to 105 degrees. The stirring prevents the curd from sticking to the bottom. When the temperature is reached, shut off heat source, place cheese cloth in a large sieve and place this in a large bowl. Pour cheese mixture into it. As the whey drains off the cheese, place the whey back into the original container and save to make Ricotta cheese.

After the whey has drained off the cheese, rinse the cheese in water, and then in ice water, and let drain a few minutes. Place into a refrigerator storage container and add salt and possibly some milk to taste.

MICROWAVE FUDGE

- 1 pound powdered confectioner's sugar
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 cup goat's milk
- 1/4 pound butter

Mix ingredients and put in microwave full power for 2 1/2 minutes.

If desired, add one of the following ingredients: 1 cup peanut butter, 1/2 cup marshmallow cream, 1 cup miniature marshmallows, 1/2 cup nuts.

Jenny Bigelow
Blair Co. Dairy Princess

FANTASTIC FUDGE

- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup goat milk
- 1/4 cup cocoa
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 1 cup confectioner's sugar

Combine granulated sugar, goat milk and cocoa. Stir over medium heat to softball stage. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients but do not stir. When cool enough to hold hand on pan, heat until fudge loses its gloss. Pour into pan and cool.

Nancy Kramer
Newmanstown

GOAT MILK FUDGE

- 2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup goat milk
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 2 tablespoons white corn syrup
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup nuts

Cook sugar, cocoa, syrup, butter and milk to soft ball-238 degrees. Cool slightly, beat until creamy, add vanilla and nuts.

Jane Fisher
Manheim

Goat milk can be substituted in any recipe that calls for milk.

FETA CHEESE

- 2 rennet tablets
- 1 gallon goat milk

Heat the milk in a sterilized porcelain or stainless steel pan to 92 degrees. Dissolve the rennet tablets in 3 tablespoons of cold water and then add dissolved rennet slowly into the heated milk and stir. Milk can then be removed from the heat source. The mixture will thicken within thirty to thirty-five minutes. When the curd can be moved from the side of the pan with a gentle push from a clean knife, you can begin to cut the curd. Cut the curds into two-inch cubes. Pour the cut curds and whey into a clean cheesecloth and allow it to drain. When most of the whey has drained, tighten the cheesecloth from the top. This will force out any remaining whey and will cause the weight of the curd to press upon itself. Allow it to hang in the tightened cheesecloth for three to five hours.

Remove the cheese from the cloth and slice it into one-inch thick slices. Take the saltbox and liberally salt both sides of each slice. Wrap all of the slices together in foil and refrigerate. Do the same with the salt and the cheese the next day. Store refrigerated for five days. Prepare yourself for a salty but flavorful cheese.

Jean Fisher
Manheim

GOAT'S MILK ICE CREAM

- 5 eggs
- 2 cans sweetened condensed milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons vanilla
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin

Goat's milk to fill 6-quart freezer. Beat eggs until lemon-colored. Add sugar, vanilla, condensed milk and mix well. Add unflavored gelatin which has been dissolved in one cup of goat's milk. Mix well. Add goat's milk to fill 6-quart ice cream freezer and turn until hard.

The recipe is deliciously creamy. It doesn't get too hard and leftovers freeze well.

- Preparation time: 15 minutes
- Cooking time: 11 to 13 minutes
- 1 pound ground beef (85 per cent lean)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper
- 1/4 cup sliced mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/4 cup sliced green onion
- 2 English muffins, split, toasted
- 4 slices Colby cheese, quartered
- 3/4 cup (3 ounces) shredded Muenster cheese
- 4 slices bacon, cooked, crumbled

Combine ground beef, salt and red pepper, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Divide into 4 portions and form into patties, 1/2 inch thick. Place on rack in broiler pan so burgers are 3 to 4 inches from heat. Broil 10 to 12 minutes, turning once. Meanwhile saute mushrooms in butter until tender; remove from heat and stir in green onion. Top each muffin half with equal amounts of Colby cheese, burger, mushroom mixture and Muenster cheese. Place under broiler to melt cheese. Sprinkle each with bacon. 4 servings.

Goat Milk

GARLIC & HERB CHEESE

Warm 1 gallon milk to 72 degrees. Add 4 ounces of cheese starter culture and mix in thoroughly. Cover and allow to set at 72 degrees for 16 hours. When using goat milk, you must add a small amount of Rennet. To add rennet: Dissolve ¼ rennet tablet in ¼-cup water. Add ¼ teaspoon this at the same time as the starter culture. After 16 hours, milk will have coagulated into a solid white curd. Line a colander with cheese cloth. Pour curds and whey into colander. Tie the four corners of the cheese cloth into a knot and hang bag of curd to drain. Allow bag to drain until it stops dripping whey (24-36 hours). You may have to change cloth occasionally as the pores of the cloth can become clogged and not drain properly. After draining, place in bowl. Add ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 clove garlic, minced, several sprigs chives, chopped fine, fresh black pepper, and a dash paprika. Mix together thoroughly, using a food processor. If no herbs are added, you can use cheese in cooking or for cheese cake.

Save whey from this to use in Ricotta cheese. Recipe below.

Nancy Kramer
Newmanstown

RICOTTA CHEESE

Pour whey remaining from cheese made from a gallon of milk into a stainless steel or enameled pan. Add 1 quart fresh milk and heat whey over direct heat, stirring occasionally. DO NOT BOIL. When whey reaches 205 degrees, remove from heat and add juice of 1 lemon, or ¼ cup vinegar. Stir the whey for several minutes. Be careful as lemon juice produces tiny curds in the liquid. Pour hot curds and whey into a cheese cloth lined colander and allow to drain and cool for 15-20 minutes. Remove curd from cheese cloth and break into pea-sized pieces in a bowl. Add salt to taste. Then add 2 tablespoons fresh buttermilk, stir thoroughly and place the cheese in a mold which has been sterilized with boiling water. Place the mold covered with cheese cloth to drain for 6-12 hours. Store in refrigerator when drained. Ricotta does not require aging and can be eaten right away.

I purchased my cheese starter culture and rennet tablets from New England Cheesemaking Supply Co., P.O. Box 85, Ashfield, Ma. 01330.

Spruce up a container of vanilla yogurt for an on-call, on-the-go breakfast. Stir in some berries; dried fruit bits; almond brickle pieces; nuts; chow mein noodles; granola; pumpkin seeds; jams or preserves; semisweet chocolate pieces; shredded lemon, orange, or lime peel; or toasted coconut.

Next time you whip up some sweetened whipped cream, pipe the extra into serving-size dollops onto a sheet of waxed paper. Freeze until hardened. Then wrap individually. Voila! A garnish that's ready when you want it.

Melt chocolate and butter over hot water. Remove and blend in sugar and water. Beat only until smooth, not stiff.

With serrated knife, cut cake horizontally in half to form 2 layers. Place 1 on plate. Spread with custard. Top with second layer, pressing down gently, but firmly. Frost top. Refrigerate. Serves 10.

The accredited land consultant professional designation signifies that Mrs. Caton has achieved superior educational and ethical standards in the field of farm and land brokerage.

The designation is offered exclusively to realtors by the "Realtors Land Institute," an affiliate of the national association of realtors. The institute promotes real estate professionalism.

To obtain the professional designation a candidate must complete 12 courses, normally requiring four years to complete, covering subjects, such as appraisals of agricultural properties, exchanging farms, ranches and rural properties, land return analysis, federal taxes and real estate and other urban and agricultural land related subjects. A candidate must also demonstrate that he/she has practical experience in the field and has served his/her realtor association. Three in-depth demonstration reports must be written on 3 different types of transactions he/she had made on exchanging, investment, farm and ranch, commercial and industrial properties and development of land. All of the requirements must be documented in a candidate's report for approval prior to receiving permission to take the written and oral examination.

Tressie serves on the Pennsylvania Association of Realtors board of directors, was 1987 State President of the Realtors Land Institute and is presently a member of the board of governors, on the national level, of the Realtors Land Institute.

Glimpses Of The Elizabethtown Young Farmers' Banquet

New officers elected to head the Elizabethtown Farmers Association include from left: Jim Hershey and Joe Wivell, co-chairmen of public relations and activities; Dennis Drager, treasurer; Mel Hoffer, vice-president; Bob Brandt, secretary; Ken Myer, president, and Neal Buss, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture.

The award winners included from left: Gerald Risser, hay-mixed grasses and mixed legume; Carl and Dale Brandt, high cow for milk production; William Helstand, hay-grass; Robert Brandt, greatest increase herd average in milk and also in fat production; Joe Wivell, high cow for fat; Galen Kopp, field corn-ear. Harvey Espenshade received the Conservation Award.

Neal Buss, (left) Deputy Secretary of Agriculture, told the Elizabethtown Young Farmers that the day farmers depend upon the government to bail them out of trouble, the country will then be in trouble.

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture, Neal Buss, told the audience gathered at Country Table, Mount Joy, that it would take 203,000 tractor and trailer trucks, lined up from the Pennsylvania turnpike to Los Vegas to carry all the milk that the state produces in one year.

Mel and Marilyn Nissley, a poultry farmer, brought the youngest attendee, nine-week-old Jeremy, to the annual banquet.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Toss together a winter salad with a few fresh ingredients and your microwave's help.

A hearty main-dish salad, like one of today's recipes, is served warm to take the bite off cool March days and give a hint of mild spring days to come.

Both salads call for micro-stir-frying meat or poultry. Small thin strips or cubes cook most evenly. For flavor and color, coat them with a mixture of paprika and other seasonings. Cover with waxed paper, microwave on High and stir at times indicated.

The salad dressing for both salads uses a combination of vinegar, sugar and pan drippings from stir-frying in the first step. Since the pork and chicken cuts are both very low in fat, the tiny amount left in drippings adds just the right touch of flavor, but keeps both salads low in calories.

Serve either salad with warm rolls or garlic bread. Wrap rolls or bread in foil and start warming them in your conventional oven as you start to make the salad. Or pop a pan of refrigerated biscuits in to bake before starting the salad. In about 10 minutes, you'll be ready to sit down and eat.

Hot Pork and Pear Tossed Salad
5-6 cups bite-size pieces of salad greens

2 medium firm winter pears, cored and thinly sliced

4 green onions, including green tops, cut in 1-inch slivers

1 pound pork tenderloin or boneless lean chops

1 teaspoon seasoned salt

1 teaspoon paprika

1/3 cup coarsely broken walnuts

2 tablespoons cider or herb vinegar

2 tablespoons sugar

Freshly ground black pepper

In large serving bowl, toss together salad greens, pears and green onions; set aside.

Cut pork into 1 1/4 x 1/4 -inch strips. (If using chops, trim off all visible outside fat.) In a microwave-safe 1-quart casserole, stir together pork strips, seasoned salt and paprika until pork is well coated with spices; add walnuts. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave (High) 4 to 5 minutes, stirring each 2 minutes or until pork is done. With a slotted spoon, remove pork strips and walnuts to salad mixture; toss to mix. Quickly add vinegar, sugar and black pepper to pork drippings. Microwave (High) 45 to 60 seconds. Stir to dissolve sugar. Quickly pour mixture over salad and toss. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Each serving: 153 calories, 9g protein, 9g fat, 12g carbohydrate, 259mg sodium, 18mg cholesterol.

Hot Chicken and Cabbage Salad
1 package (3 ounces) chicken flavor oriental noodle (ramen) soup mix

1/2 teaspoon paprika

1/2 pound boneless skinned chicken breasts, cut in 1/2 x 1/4 -inch pieces

1 tablespoon sugar

1 tablespoon oil

2 tablespoons white vinegar

1/8 teaspoon salt (optional)

2 cups thinly sliced cabbage

1 or 2 green onions, including green tops, thinly sliced

3 or 4 medium mushrooms, sliced

Crumble noodles from soup mix; set aside. In microwave-safe

2-quart casserole, stir together seasoning packet from soup mix and paprika. Stir in chicken until well coated. Cover dish with waxed paper. Microwave (High) 2 to 3 minutes, stirring after each minute, or until chicken is done. Quickly stir in sugar, oil, vinegar and salt until sugar is dissolved. Add cabbage, onions, mushrooms and crumbled noodles; toss to coat with dressing. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave (High) 1 to 2 minutes, stirring after 1 minute. Cabbage should be warm and slightly wilted; noodles will remain slightly crisp. Serve immediately. Makes 2 large servings.

Each serving: 345 calories, 31g protein, 41g fat, 26g carbohydrate, 446mg sodium, 73mg cholesterol.

MAMMA And Beef Councils Team Up For Gourmet Cheeseburger Promotion

The Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association, along with the beef councils from Maryland and Pennsylvania have added localized promotional and advertising elements to an upcoming $7-million dollar national campaign designed around cheeseburgers.

The program, which runs the entire month of April, encourages consumers to "Build A Gourmet Cheeseburger."

The sponsors of the promotion, the American Dairy Association, along with the Beef Industry Council and Beef Board, define a Gourmet Cheeseburger as a patty of premium or lean ground beef plus two types of domestic cheeses.

Mini-Billboards

To bolster the national campaign, MAMMA and the Maryland Beef Council have coordinated the use of mini-billboards on shopping carts. This program, known as Actmedia, will appear in close to 400 supermarkets in the Baltimore-Washington area. Safeway, Superfresh, Basics/Super Super, Santoni's, and Farm Fresh are among the participating retailers. The 8x10 inch full-color billboards will be seen on approximately 30 shopping carts in each store. The use of Actmedia is being funded 100% by the Maryland Beef Council. They will first appear in mid-April, and run thru mid-May.

Best Food Day Ads

Another local element will be full-page best food day theme ads due to appear in the Baltimore Sun and the Washington Post. According to MAMMA Marketing Director Bill Snitcher, "These ads give the retailer the opportunity to tie-in at least five different departments of their store using the cheeseburger theme. Those departments are meat, dairy (cheese), bakery (rolls), produce (lettuce, tomato, etc.), and grocery (catsup, mustard, etc.," Snitcher says the ads will be completely funded by the suppliers of the products which make up the Gourmet Cheeseburger.

Reaction to the theme ads has been extremely positive among food retailers according to Snitcher. One chain store owner, who plans the oven empty. At what point is the amount of food so small that it amounts to nothing and becomes hazardous to the oven?

A. A quarter cup of moist food, such as meat, vegetables, etc., with sauces would not be hazardous to your microwave — provided you aren't cooking the food for a prolonged time. Using normal heating/cooking times for even smaller amounts of moist foods would be no problem. You can microwave even a very small amount — like a teaspoon of butter — for 10 to 15 seconds just to melt it, but you wouldn't want to cook it for a minute or two.

With a small amount of a dry food, such as drying a tablespoon or less of fresh herbs, or making croutons with a half slice bread or toasting ¼ cup of nuts, be cautious not to microwave the food too long or it would be like running the microwave empty.

Microwaves are absorbed by the water, fat or sugar in food. If the microwave oven is run empty, there is nothing to absorb the microwaves and they can travel back up into the magnetron tube and ruin the oven. However with most new microwave ovens, the magnetron is shielded so that if the microwave is accidentally turned on for a minute or two, no damage is done.

Q. We just got a microwave and we use it mostly to re-warm previously cooked food, but the uneven warming disappoints us. What are we doing wrong?

A. A couple of suggestions should help. Cover the food during heating. Use waxed paper for an individual meal made up of several different foods on a dinner plate. Use plastic wrap or a tight lid for moist foods, such as a leftover casserole, vegetables or soup. Arrange food or pieces of food so that biggest foods or thickest parts are to outside edges of dish. Stir or rearrange food during heating. Or, rotate the dish a quarter turn half-way through heating. For thick large pieces of food, allow food to stand several minutes (still covered) before serving.

If your microwave has a wattage output of 650 or more, try using a lower power setting, such as Medium-High (70 percent power, about 400 watts) or Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) and slightly longer time.

There's nothing like the taste of Gourmet Cheeseburgers believes Bill Snitcher, Marketing Director/Communications, to convince consumers to buy more beef and dairy products.

Bill Snitcher, Marketing Director/Communication for Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area, takes a bite of his Gourmet Cheeseburger, while Trish Williams, Communications Director, admires hers.

Cheeseburger Promotion

to run the ad the week after Easter, said that this is the type of program that will help build store traffic during a traditionally slow business week.

Snitcher says the Actmedia billboards and the theme ads represent areas of the upcoming promotion unique to the MAMMA marketing area. "To my knowledge, we are the only A.D.A. unit in the nation using these additional media tools," says Snitcher.

In-Store Display Kits

Yet another aspect of the Gourmet Cheeseburger promotion involves the use of in-store banners, signs, mobiles and recipe booklets to reach the shopper at the point of purchase. Research shows that almost 75% of today's buying decisions are made while the shopper is in the store. Therefore these signs can have a significant impact on the overall success of the promotion.

Over 1300 supermarkets locally, and 25,000 stores nationally are due to use the materials. These kits are made available in area retailers at no charge, and are installed by professionals.

Among the local retailers who have signed up to use the materials: Weis, Acme, Safeway, Fox's, Karn's, Shurfine, Jay's, Valu Food, Mars, Farm Fresh, Santoni's, Thriftway, Big B and Superthrift.

National Campaign

All of the work done locally by MAMMA is meant to compliment the national campaign.

Part of the national program involves a $1-million dollar a week network TV buy running from April 4-14. The 30-second commercials feature celebrity spokesman Willard Scott of NBC's "Today Show." The commercials will be seen on such popular shows as Our House, Thirty Something, 20/20, Wheel of Fortune and the Young and the Restless.

In addition to TV, 30-second network radio commercials using Willard will run at the same time.

National print ads featuring Gourmet Cheeseburgers will also appear in USA Weekend, TV Guide, Family Circle, and Woman's Day.

The ads will feature recipe inserts consumers how to make delicious Gourmet Cheeseburgers.

Food Service

The American Dairy Association is extending the promotion to restaurateurs by offering a free merchandising kit containing recipes, table tents and menu clips. This foodservice extension, the first of its kind in the three-year history of the spring cheeseburger campaign was announced in the February issue of a popular trade magazine, Restaurants and Institutions.

The American Dairy Association is the advertising and marketing arm of the United Dairy Industry Association. The Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association is the regional unit of A.D.A. and is responsible for the Baltimore-Washington, Philadelphia and York-Harrisburg-Lancaster markets.

Pre-Owned Harvestore® Structures Offer Durable Investment Value

Every penny counts in animal agriculture today. You can't afford anything less than the best... the Harvestore feed processing system. Whether you buy a new or pre-owned Harvestore structure, your value per dollar invested has never been better.

If you choose a pre-owned structure, don't buy on price alone. Unless your pre-owned Harvestore unit is built by an authorized, independent Harvestore system dealership, it might not meet the high standards of quality and performance for which the name "Harvestore" is famous.

When your authorized dealer builds your pre-owned structure, his experienced crew will use a complete kit of genuine Harvestore brand replacement parts, including new bolts, nuts and washers; new breather bags; new door gaskets; and a new unloader trough. This insures the uniform quality of your pre-owned structure.

Your dealership will be there to support you with parts and service, too. That means you can count on your structure to deliver all the advantages you've come to expect from the Harvestore brand.

Can you afford anything less?

WARNING

An unauthorized source may offer you a used structure, but you can't be sure of the quality and value. You are not assured that the structure will meet original specifications. Furthermore, you are not assured that it will be rebuilt with factory-authorized replacement parts. The structure will not come with a Harvestore Systems' warranty, nor with independent authorized-dealer service and warranty protection.

We Have Pre-Owned Structures Available For Your Forage And Grain Needs.

/35 to 72 PTO HP (26.1 to 53.7 kW)

New! A complete line of mid-power tractors offers new comfort, convenience and productivity.

Unlimited visibility in every direction.

The new cabs on the 585, 685 and 885 models feature exceptional visibility. For greater operator efficiency, there's an almost unbroken line of vision all around, including clear view of the hitch and drawbar. There's plenty of big-tractor comfort and convenience, too, with a fully adjustable seat and controls that are close at hand. You can enter or leave the cab from either side through doors that open easily with gas-assist cylinders. The cab is quiet, too, with deluxe padding all around.

Easy operating convenience.

To maximize your productivity without clutching, all five 85 Series tractors can be equipped with electro-hydraulic two-speed power shift, controlled by a dash-mounted toggle switch. The power shift system provides for a fast shift speed reduction which increases pull power and field performance. Fields speeds, as well as loader and hauling speeds, meet your everyday needs. Power shift is standard on the 885, optional on other models.

Traction boosting MFD is available on all 85 Series row-crop and utility tractors. Simple, reliable center-line Mechanical Front Drive increases your traction and your pulling power. Shift in and out of MFD on the go with electro-hydraulic ease (optional on 485 tractor).

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

People speak of youth as being carefree. Now it did not seem that way to me when I was a teenager. There was too much work to be done on the farm as I was the oldest of seven girls. So, I was hired boy and child caretaker. Besides this, I was a shy person with few friends. Although, I had a strong will to succeed.

It seems that each age has its joys and problems. After getting married and raising six children on a small income, one would expect things to improve. The children have all graduated from college and scattered over the country.

But, now that one son has given up a good paying job in Chicago to come home and form a partnership with his father on our dairy farm, there are still complications.

When we were young, we seldom thought of seeing a lawyer but now there are agreements, leases and contracts to sign. And we can't forget wills to remake and options to give, plus power of attorney for older relatives. After helping to settle several estates, I feel that I know more legal terms than the average person does.

Income tax time brings its own set of problems and one learns that lawyers and accountants make mistakes too and so one must continually be on the alert. Dealing with banks in regard to loans and investments is an education too. It seems to take years to gain sufficient knowledge in many areas of finance.

We are going to try and forget the problems of everyday life and drive south this month to visit some of our children. We have never been in their homes in Georgia and Tennessee.

"Don't forget the cheese" mobiles remind grocery store customers to include cheese in their shopping needs. Snitcher, center, said that 70-75% of buying decisions are made in the store. Consequently they hope to influence shoppers by using in-store banners, signs, mobiles and recipe booklets during the month long Gourmet Cheeseburger promotion. Edle Bernier, left, and Emmett Full, DVM, of Maryland Beef Council helped plan the promotion.

Canadian Pork

A recent change in the relationship between the U.S. dollar and the Canadian dollar may be signaling good news for U.S. pork producers, said Glenn Grimes, University of Missouri Ag Economist. For much of the past three or four years, the Canadian dollar was equivalent in value to about 72% of the U.S. dollar, Grimes said. "But now the Canadian dollar has increased in value to about 77% of the U.S. dollar," Grimes said. "As their dollar gains, it lowers the price at which they can sell live hogs and pork products to us. With the current hog prices, this means Canadians would receive about $4 per cwt less in Canadian dollars than before when they ship pork products across the border."

For the first 10 months of 1987, 363,228 live hogs were imported from Canada, down 19% from a year ago. Imports of Canadian pork products were up 12% at 458 million pounds compared with 409 million pounds for the same period a year ago. Imports of pork products for 1987 had been running anywhere from 14% to 24% above a year ago prior to the time period ending in October.

Reprinted from the January/February issue of "Pork Report."

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Badger Presents Awards To Maryland Dealer

KAUKAUNA, WI — Heflin Sales & Service of Woodsboro, MD has been recognized for special performance in 1987 by Badger Northland. Each year Badger Northland recognizes one dealer in each of its sales districts for outstanding performance within his trade area. The criteria for selecting the dealer for this prestigious award includes: quality of the dealership's service and installation work; appearance of the dealership facilities including store, vehicles, service area, and employees; participation in Badger programs including service and sales schools, retail sales programs, advance factory order writing programs, etc.; dealer's attitude toward his customers, his employees, and Badger Northland; and sales promotion activity such as consistent local advertising, participation in local fairs and shows, and other community activities.

Each dealer in the sales district is judged as to his activities in these areas. The dealership with the best overall performance is then recognized for his performance and received the coveted "District Special Performance Award."

Heflin Sales & Service also received the Key Dealer Award. This goes to dealers who portray the best qualities of a modern agribusiness dealership.

Asgrow Introduces New Centennial Carrot

SUN PRAIRIE, WI. — A new carrot, Centennial, that shows promise for processing and packaging has been introduced by Asgrow Seed Company.

According to Scott Hendricks, Associate Plant Breeder at Asgrow's North Central States Station in Sun Prairie, Wis., Centennial is an eight- to nine-inch blunt style carrot. Tested as XPH 982, Centennial was originally developed as a slicing carrot for processors.

"Centennial has a small core size and good orange color, better than OP Nantes," he explains. "The core and cortex are very similar in color, and comparable to PY60."

Processor carrot grower Al Kincaid, of R.S. Kincaid Inc. in Palmyra, Wis., tested six acres of the new carrot in 1987. "Out of six slicing carrot varieties I had in trial, Centennial was the most heat tolerant," says Kincaid. "We had a stretch of 90 degree days in May and June. At that time, temperatures are usually in the seventies. I lost one-half of the Nantes field during that hot stretch, and unseasonable heat thinned the stands of all my slicers except Centennial."

"Because Centennial was very good for stand, we should have had only 11 to 12 viable plants per foot to get the same yield results as PY60. We shoot for 14 viable plants per foot with PY60, and we planted Centennial at the same rate," says Kincaid. He reported no foliar diseases with any varieties in the trial.

Packaging trial results

Centennial was evaluated in the 1987 carrot cultivar observation trial at the Muck Research Station in Kettleby, Ontario. In the packaging carrot trial, Centennial produced a 93 percent marketable yield of 94 tons per hectare. The carrot had good eye appeal and no horizontal lesions or rusty root.

Wenger Tops Lancaster Co. Alfalfa Growers

LANDISVILLE — Nelson Wenger finished first among Lancaster County farmers in the 1987 Pennsylvania Alfalfa Growers Program.

Wenger topped the county with 7.86 tons per acre using Funk's G-2852, a proprietary alfalfa sold by Hoffman Seeds, Inc. It marks the second consecutive year Wenger has finished first in the competition using a Hoffman alfalfa.

G-2852 features outstanding disease protection coupled with high yields and long stands.

The Pa. Alfalfa Growers Program is sponsored by The Pennsylvania Forage And Grassland Council and The Pennsylvania State University College of Agriculture.

Hoffman Seeds markets a variety of farm seed products for Eastern agriculture including Funk's G-Hybrid corn.

York Ag-Products To Function Independently

YORK — York Ag-Products has become independent of York Stone & Supply Co. The firm will be responsible for the ongoing research, new-product development, quality-control programs, and the sales and distribution of all agricultural-related products that were produced or sold by its parent company.

The new owners of York Ag-Products are Art McAlister, president, and Dale Anderson, vice president. The company will continue to operate at its present location. Its sister organization, Bestone Corp., will continue to produce calcium carbonate and limestone products.

The re-organization has allowed production facilities to be increased and more technically oriented. As of February 2, customers will be invoiced by York Ag-Products.

Grempler Offers No-Vent Goggle For Anhydrous Application

MT. HOREB, WI. — Farmers must be concerned about accidental leaks and hose breaks when working with anhydrous ammonia this Spring planting season. A full face respirator is recommended to protect the eyes and respiratory system from disabling burns.

"Ordinary vented goggles do not provide for protection of the eyes. Ammonia gas is not stopped by indirect vents," reminds Steve Schlecht, President of GEMPLER's Inc., mail-order specialists of farm safety gear. "For $79.00 a farmer can now equip himself or his employees with a full face respirator for ammonia concentrations up to 300 ppm."

For Farmers already using a half-mask respirator, GEMPLER's now offers a NO-Vent, fog-free goggle for anhydrous application.

GEMPLER's mails a 24 page farm-direct catalog to farmers and ranchers nationwide. It includes a complete line of farm safety gear, including respirators, TYVEK disposable coveralls, chemical-resistant aprons and gloves, safety footwear, first-aid supplies, signs and more.

Yetter Weight Transfer System Keeps Tools In Ground

COLCHESTER, IL. — The new Yetter one-of-a-kind Weight Transfer System (WTS), can add up to 3,600 pounds downpressure to a toolbar without attaching a single add-on weight. And best of all, it can be handled on-the-go from the tractor seat.

For a graphic description of how the WTS works, visualize a huge lever inserted under the tractor's rear end (the lifting point) and extending out over the top of the toolbar (the fulcrum). When a large downward force is exerted at the end of the lever, whatever is mounted on the toolbar is forced into the ground with up to 3,600 pounds pressure.

Instead of a lever, Yetter uses hydraulics to achieve this unique benefit. A two-inch cylinder is built into parallel linkage directly behind the toolbar and connected to the tractor's 3-point center link. As this is collapsed, the linkage lifts up against the weight of the tractor, creating tremendous downforce against the toolbar.

Because there are no heavy add-on weights to lift or pull, there is no need for extra horsepower. An easy-to-read gauge on the linkage permits the operator to adjust downpressure to varying field conditions. Also, two oil accumulators act as shock absorbers for the hydraulic cylinder when the system is in operating range.

Now, with Yetter's innovative Weight Transfer System it is at last possible to provide ample penetration for coulters used ahead of end wheel drills, drawn planters, NH3 and fertilizer applicators, subsoilers and other drawn equipment. Models are available for use with or without 3-point hitches. Included are two toolbar parking stands, an adjusting jack on the hitch leg, speed hooking and unhooking from the WTS toolbar, along with toolbar hitch, hydraulic hoses, hydraulic cylinder and oil accumulators. Optional gauge wheels provide constant toolbar height under all conditions.

For more information contact Yetter Mfg. Co., Colchester, IL 62326-0358 or call toll free outside IL 800/447-5777 or inside IL, 800/325-7165.

Low Organic Matter Found Even With Excess Manure

WHITE HORSE — "With all the manure that's being dumped on our local soils, we still have very low organic matter." That's the conclusion Murray Bast, Bio-Ag Specialist from Ontario, Canada, reported to farmers here last Friday at the Hess Farm Supply Ag Seminar.

"We are now starting to realize that we need to put back friendly bacteria into the soil to help digest and decompose these large quantities of raw manure," Bast said. Bast likened the soil to a stomach. When you have too much raw manure-- not composted or processed in any way-- you have the same reaction in the soil as you do in your stomach after you eat too much. Bast said that we need to see agriculture in a total concept. This includes the microbial balance in the soil, the plants, the insects, the animals, and up to mankind. "We have probably done more damage to planet Earth in the last 60 years than what we did in the first 6,000 years of recorded history. If we learn to work with nature, we'll probably get a better degree of success."

Bast attributes this soil imbalance to not only chemicals and fertilizers, but also to minerals that come from the feed stuffs fed to animals. The imbalance actually causes strange things to happen-- more weeds grow.

Dr. Edward Sheaffer, veterinarian from Palmyra Valley Animal Hospital, discussed Homeopathy, the system of medicine, while different from what is taught in veterinary schools, tries to build up the animal immune system with a more natural approach. "If a cow has a fever, why?" Sheaffer asks. "What benefits may be realized from the fever," Sheaffer says some of his clients use Homeopathy and others use a more traditional approach to treatment.

Sixty Mothers And Their Kids Thrive On Fisher Farm

BY LOU ANN GOOD

MANHEIM — Everyday Jacob and Jane Fisher go to their Manheim barn and call, "Here, girls. Come here, girls."

When they call, sixty mothers and their kids come running.

Jacob and Jane hug and pat their charges while they murmur sweet nothings to them. It's milking time and nothing gives the Fishers more delight than their fun-loving goats.

Forget the tales about obnoxious goats, for the Fishers are determined to change that image to what they believe the true image of a goat should be. "They're not stinky," Fisher maintains, "if you take proper care of them." Not only that, but the Fishers insist that goats are lovable pets that are easier to care for and manage than cows.

The Fishers ought to know. They've been in the goat business for 33 years. "Good years," they affirm. "The value that we and our children got out of them (goats) can't be put into dollars and cents," Fisher said.

"Goat milk is easily digestible," Fisher explained. "Many people who are allergic to cow milk can drink goat milk with no ill effects." Fisher supports this scientific fact with stories of families who switched to goat milk and got healthier and slept better.

Faithful clientele make weekly treks to the Fisher's farm to stock up on goat milk. What the Fishers do not sell locally, they sell to the Goat Works in New Jersey.

Fisher said there is a big demand for goat milk in larger cities since more people from other countries and ethnic groups live there. Those groups are often raised on goat meat and milk and prefer the specialty items such as fudge and cheese that is made from goat milk. While traveling through cities, the Fishers have spotted the milk for $10 a gallon. The Fishers sell theirs for $3 a gallon.

Over the years, Fisher has maintained his fulltime job while Jane takes care of most of the milking. Jane explained, "We got into goats when the children were small because I wanted something to work at while at home."

For 15 years the Fishers have been 4-H leaders and their farm is often the site of tours by schools, tourists and groups interested in goats. Jane recalled that one year they transported a goat to a German club in Lancaster. When they opened the car trunk on a Lancaster street, passerbys exclaimed, "Look at that huge dog."

Not only do goats produce good milk, but according to Fisher, their meat tastes much like veal and it makes excellent bologna.

Fisher's goat interests are not limited to the live, furry, four legged creatures, he collects everything that is goat related. He has over 700 post cards, stacks of books and calendars featuring goats, 600 ceramic goats, goat horns and numerous other items.

Jean calls her husband the goat expert and confided, "He'll talk all day about goats, if you let him." No kidding.

Jacob Shirk holds his favorite goat who was named after the woman from whom he bought her.

Enter Veal Recipe Contest

Plans for the Beef Industry Council/Veal Committee of the Meat Board and American Veal Association's Second Favorite Veal Recipe Contest recently were finalized. The huge success of the first contest last year prompted the decision to repeat the contest and to gather together more creative ideas for using veal.

The prizes include a Grand Prize of $1,000 plus an opportunity for the winner and an escort to be the guests of the American Veal Association at the Annual Meeting in Columbus, Ohio on Wednesday, June 22, 1988. Second prize is $500 and third prize is $300.

Food editors, farm broadcasters, supermarket consumer affairs directors and cooking school professionals will be informed during the months of February and March. The entry deadline is April 1, 1988.

The rules for the contest follow. Additional information can be obtained by writing to the contest address.

Contest Rules

1. Submit an original recipe for any dish using at least one pound of veal, not in combination with any other meat, on an 8½ x 11 inch piece of paper. One recipe per sheet, either typed or printed. Enter often, but only one entry may qualify as a winner.

2. Include name, address and telephone number. Entrants must be 18 years old by April 1, 1988.

3. Members of the American Veal Association Board of Directors or AVA staff, and members of their immediate family, are ineligible to win prizes.

4. Entries must be postmarked by midnight, April 1, 1988. Send to: Favorite Veal Recipe Contest, Box 733, Des Moines, Iowa 50303.

5. Judging will be based on originality, ease of preparation, appearance and taste. If duplicate recipes are received, the one with the earlier postmark will be judged.

6. Winners will be notified by mail no later than June 1, 1988. Recipes become the property of the American Veal Association.

7. Prizes include: Grand Prize - $1,000.00 plus a trip for the winner and an escort to the American Veal Association Annual Meeting in Columbus, Ohio on June 22, 1988; second prize - $500.00; third prize - $300.00. Any applicable taxes are the sole responsibility of the winners. Void where prohibited or restricted by law.

Furadan Costs Less Than Other Insecticides According To Study

PHILADELPHIA — The good news for farmers is that prices of insecticides are generally lower than they were a year or two ago. The even better news is: the price of Furadan® Insecticide-Nematicide is lower than any of the insecticide included in the recent USDA survey of retail prices for pesticides.

"The price decline," says FMC product manager Bill Hymans, "was a result of our decision last year to help our customers out by lowering the retail prices of Furadan. We said then that one of our goals was to help our customers minimize input costs without sacrificing performance. And as this survey proves, that's exactly what we've done."

The USDA report was based on a survey of farm supply dealers. It was conducted by the Department's agricultural statistics service, and compared prices in October 1987 to those of a year earlier.

"Growers who price out Furadan with their dealers may find that Case International 5100 Soybean Special Drill!

Drill soybeans with a 5100 Soybean Special and you can expect yields up to 25% higher than with conventional row-planting methods. Here's what you get with the 5100:

- Outstanding seeding accuracy. Famous Case International feed cups deliver seed smoothly and positively at a uniform rate.
- Solid seeding. Accurate depth control in row spacings as close as 6"...while some other drills provide depth control only in 10" or 12" spacings.

- Fast emergence. Case International dual-rib press wheels compact the soil around the seed, and gently "firm" the top to prevent air pockets. Result: Quick germination and emergence...a fast start toward high yields.

Krause

THE FIRST ROCKFLEX DISC IS THE BEST

It Takes More Than A C-ARM BEARING Hanger To Make A ROCKFLEX DISC That LOVES ROCKS

Most disc harrow manufacturers, including Krause, are located in areas that do not have rocks like we have in Pennsylvania and Maryland. Because Hoobers have sold over 500 KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISCS to Pennsylvania and Maryland Farms. KRAUSE knows what it takes to make discs that work and hold up for years of production in tough, rocky conditions.

Before You Purchase A New Disc This SPRING,
You Should Try A KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISC...
They're Field PROVEN...

Positive adjustment leveling from front to rear is no problem. Weight is shifted by these Spring Rods to produce a smooth finish

THE Silawrap SYSTEM THE NEW ROUND BALE WRAPPER

An Economical Efficient Method Of Making Silage

This is the Silawrap system:

- The lift-arm places the bale on the turn table.
- Silawrap film is then attached to one of the bale strings
- As the turn table is rotating, the rollers will slowly turn the bale.
- The Silawrap film is stretched around the bale overlapping 2-3-4 or 5 times according to the setting of the gears.
- The film is cut, film end secured and bale tipped off.

DAIRYMEN EVERYWHERE ARE FALLING IN LOVE.

The new Grain Brain® feeding system has caught on in a hurry! That's because it allows you to take advantage of the benefits of multiple feeding (increased milk production, lower feed costs, higher butterfat, improved herd health) with only a modest investment and no increase in labor. Here's how it works: When you do your regular feeding you also fill your Grain Brain dispensers. At the time you have pre-set into Grain Brain, the dispensers drop feed for each cow's next feeding. That means you can go from two- or three-time to four- or six-time-per-day feeding with no extra labor!

For complete details see us soon. We have a brochure and work sheet that will help us show you exactly what a Grain Brain system can do for you. You'll love it!

The Milk Tank That Overflowed

BY LOU ANN GOOD

HESSDALE — Disease outbreaks among herds bring fear to every farmer's heart. In fact, a study of agricultural stresses lists an outbreak of disease as the second highest stress-producing problem that farmers face.

Last spring, Leroy and Nora Weaver, dairy farmers in Hessdale, were distressed when a virus ran rampant through their herd of 53 Holsteins. In addition to administering shots to the cows, the Weavers took an extra step. They prayed.

Leroy explained that they believe all that they have belongs to God and that He knows their needs. So when their veterinarian diagnosed their herd as having a virus that could be fatal, the Weavers felt it was only natural to pray for their cows to be healed.

For three days, the cows were given shots, but their fever, coughing, and runny noses continued. The little bit of milk the herd produced needed to be discarded since it contained a high level of antibodies. For two weeks, the Weavers lost 1,000 pounds of milk daily.

Despite the low milk output, the Weavers continued to milk their herd. Leroy said, "They're going to get better." On the third week, Nora paused when she went to attach the milkers to their prized cow that had given more than 100 pounds daily before contracting the virus. She said to her husband, "I don't think it's worth trying, she doesn't give anything anyway."

Leroy was adamant. "Milk her. It's going to turn around."

The turn around was even more than Leroy could imagine possible. That week, their total production doubled from the original amount that the herd had given before their sickness. In fact, the Weaver's milk tank overflowed. Instead of the milk truck driver picking up their milk every other day, he needed to come every day for two months to pick up their daily 2,000 pounds of milk.

Both Leroy and his wife maintain, "It's a miracle."

The Weaver's 280-acre farm is used mostly to raise corn, hay and wheat for their 53 Holsteins and 37 heifers.

Since Brenda, 19, got a fulltime job, she seldom has time to help with the farm chores.

Milking is Nora's job, feeding is Leroy's responsibility and their son Gary takes care of giving corn and hay to their 53 Holsteins and 37 heifers.

No spreader on the market can match the versatility of Scavenger.™

A new look in spreader design.

More than 7 years ago, Hedlund/Martin introduced the Scavenger—a manure spreader based on an entirely new technology.

Gone were unreliable apron chains and “rooster comb” beaters. Gone were leaky endgates. Gone were the old-fashioned boxy shape. In their place—a unique patented square auger and side-discharge expeller reel. And with its welded Unibody construction, Scavenger looked like nothing before.

But even though it looked unusual, Scavenger worked. Scavenger proved itself where it counts—in the fields of farmers all across America.

And like all successful advances in technology, Scavenger invited a slew of competitors. Today, a wide variety of farm equipment manufacturers sell a Scavenger-like machine.

Unmatched performance.

While some of these look-alike units are perfectly adequate for certain manure-spreading application, none can match Scavenger's overall versatility. Scavenger spreads all kinds of manure—liquid, semi-solid, pen pack (even frozen)—all year 'round. In even spread patterns up to 50 feet. All in one machine.

So when you find it's time to purchase a new spreader, take a hard look at your choices. Don't be misled by spreaders that claim to do it all. Compare actual capabilities. We think you'll find your choice obvious. You'll choose the spreader with unmatched performance—Scavenger.

See for yourself.

For a firsthand look at Scavenger, see your local Hedlund/Martin dealer. Or write: Hedlund/Martin, Inc., A Gehl Company, 741 Kutztown Road, Myerstown, PA 17067. Telephone: 717-933-4151.

Clair Woode was named Director of Marketing and Development in COBA's Ohio division, effective April 1, 1988. He is currently serving as Ohio Sales Manager for the cooperative.

He began his A.I. career as a COBA technician in Meigs County in 1962. In 1967 he was transferred to Pickaway County and in 1969 was promoted to route sales representative servicing direct herds in western Ohio.

Woode was appointed district manager in southwestern Ohio in 1974 and sales manager in western Ohio in 1977. He became Ohio Sales Manager in January 1983.

A dedicated COBA employee, Woods received the cooperative's 25 year service award. He is a member of Ohio Purebred Dairy Cattle Association, the National Agri-Marketing Association and a lifetime member of Dairy Shrine. He also serves on the National Association of Animal Breeder's (NAAB's) inseminator training committee.

Woode and his wife Sue currently reside in Dayton, Ohio. They have one daughter and a granddaughter.

Corn And Forage Event Recognizes Farmers

Townville produced 163.4 bushels of ear corn per acre with Pioneer 3737 variety. Infields had a corn population of 23,127 plants per acre that averaged 22.5% grain moisture at harvest.

Lowell Muir, Titusville, had a corn yield of 141.6 bushels of ear corn per acre with Funk's 4032 variety. Muir had a corn plant population of 24,806 plants per acre testing 26.5% grain moisture at harvest.

This year's average cost of producing an acre of corn for those who participated in the Pennsylvania Five Acre Corn Club was $236.80 or $1.55 per bushel. The state average production cost was $218.34 per acre or $1.59 per bushel.

John and Joseph Urbanick, Conneautville, topped the County Alfalfa Growers' Program with a yield of 6.53 tons of alfalfa per acre in three (3) cuttings. This was a one-year-old stand of Oneida alfalfa. Urbanicks also received recognition at the Pennsylvania Alfalfa Awards' Program on February 4, 1988, held at the State College Elk's Club. Urbanicks were third highest in alfalfa yield for the Western Region.

Honorable mention for good alfalfa production was given to two local growers: first, Ralph Tau, Saegertown, who produced 4.08 tons per acre of new seeding of Drummer and Commandor Alfalfa; and second, Janet and Jeff Peters, Meadville, who produced 2.55 tons of alfalfa with two (2) cuttings of Centurion Alfalfa with their new seeding.

Many local farmers took advantage of the Free Health Screening Services offered by the Meadville Medical Center, which was available all day long. The people were pleased to have this service available.

Stanley Right, Weights and Measure Supervisor of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, kept busy checking the farmers' moisture meters so they will be ready for the 1988 harvest season when they check their wheat, oats, soybeans and corn for moisture content.

A total of 4 credits in update pesticide training was awarded to those growers that attended Private Ag Consultant Russell Yoho's program on Farm Chemical Safety and reading and understanding the pesticide label. Also, Robert Hartzler, Penn State Extension Agronomist, discussed herbicides — how when and what to use to control weeds on their farms.

Carl Pelino, District Conservationist, USDA, Soil Conservation Service discussed the new Food Security Act and what local farmers must do to control soil erosion problems on highly erodible soils found on their farms.

Carl Pelino, District Conservationist, USDA, Soil Conservation Service discussed the new Food Security Act and what local farmers must do to control soil erosion problems on highly erodible soils found on their farms.

William Fleet, Eastern Regional Area Agronomist with Pioneer Hi-Breds showed slides on how the corn plant grows and at what stages the plant is under stress. Fleet also pointed out the corrective measurement at different stages of growth to maximize yield.

William Griffith, Eastern Director of the Potash and Phosphate Institute, discussed that maybe the greatest yield is not the most profitable one. Due to the higher production costs, farmers today must find the production level that maximizes the best economic return for that particular farm or field.

A total of 28 industry people in the feed, seed, chemical, fertilizer and equipment business helped sponsor this educational program along with the Crawford County Extension Office. County Agent Joseph Beard was master of ceremonies for the program and was pleased with the day's attendance for this annual educational event.

Milk Commercials Have New Look

SYRACUSE, NY — Milk has a new look. The American Dairy Association has created an advertising campaign giving a new twist to the "Milk, America's Health Kick" theme.

The campaign is subtitled "All Across America." It demonstrates how people in different parts of the country use milk as part of their "Health Kick." Four 30-second spots have been developed, each appealing to a specific geographic section of the country. The soundtrack and film footage portrays each region's characteristics.

The four regions of the country which have been selected for the campaign are: East Coast; South; Heartland; and High Country. The ads appeal to people's geographic pride and stimulate interest in other regions of the country.

Scenic photography illustrates the beauty of different parts of America and distinctive musical tracks provide a local flavor. In the Heartland spot, a guitar first strums the Health Kick tune, a fiddle is used for the South, a harmonica backs up the High Country ad, while a symphony is used to depict the East.

The primary target audience for this campaign is young adults, 18-34 years of age. This group represents the majority of milk consumers in the nation, accounting for over 30% of the fluid milk volume. This group also receives a great deal of exposure to competitive beverage advertising.

ADADC will run the new spots in the local area throughout 1988. Ads will appear primarily during prime time viewing. The commercials can be seen on shows such as:

The Cosby Show, Family Ties, Murder She Wrote, The Dolly Parton Show, and the Winter Olympics. Three 60-second radio commercials have also been developed to support the campaign.

Although these ads take on a new direction for milk, they maintain the consistency of the theme "Milk, America's Health Kick." This successful theme has been used by ADADC for several years in all milk advertising including television, radio and billboards. The theme portrays milk as a healthy beverage, tying in with current fitness trends.

The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council is a dairy promotion association funded and directed by 20,000 dairy farmers from New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

Franklin Co. Farmers Receive Crop Honors

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent
LEMASTERS — Two Franklin County farmers were recognized for their outstanding 1987 crop production at the Franklin/Cumberland Forage and Soils Day held February 25 at the Lemasters Community Center.

William Swailes, Willow Hill, received a plaque for his forage sorghum and corn production. In sorghum Swailes had 16.27 tons per acre that yielded 781 pounds of crude protein and 3.22 tons of TDN. In corn he had 10.58 tons per acre that yielded 736 pounds of crude protein and 2.06 TDN.

The crops were grown in the same field. More deer damage to the corn and more drought-tolerance of the sorghum were cited as the major factors influencing yields.

Steve Mellott, Mercersburg, was Franklin County's top alfalfa grower. In five cuttings, he made 7.6 tons per acre, which yielded 2,977 pounds of crude protein per acre and 9,067 pounds of TDN per acre.

Fabral Roofing and Siding Panels help you! Low Maintenance for Farm Buildings, Stables or Horse Barns.

The low maintenance, remarkable durability and pleasing appearance of Fabral panels make them extremely popular for use on farm buildings. When architecturally required, metal panels can be bent. Consult CRMC's engineering staff for exact recommendations. Translucent panels in profile's configuration can be used for skylights or sidewall light panels. The exceptional strength and tough baked on finish of these painted panels make them virtually maintenance free even when standing unprotected. The snug fitting sidelap provides a water-tight fit. The wide section between ribs provides superior rain carrying capacities. To complete your building, CRMC stocks a full line of color matched accessories and fasteners. Call or write today for information regarding your building project or any questions you may have. We are a company that is here to serve you.

SCRANTON — To no one's surprise dairy prices started plummeting last year in anticipation of the 50 cent support price cut on January 1 and already we have a total drop of 43 cents in the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series since November. Nearly all of it came in December and January making the M-W $10.91, the lowest since July 1979 and well on its way down to the support price of $10.33 for 3.5 milk. But then all your milk prices will be going back to 1979 levels soon. Those were the last days of flexibility in setting support prices followed by the years of rigid support prices that called for minimums of 80 percent of parity with six months adjustments. That ended on March 31, 1981 when the support price went to $13.10 and it's been all downhill since then for a total drop of $2.50. Of course, that isn't the end because there's already expectations of another 50 cent cut next year and possibly in 1990 and 1991 if production keeps increasing or demand falls off.

And while the M-W didn't get down to support levels in January butter and cheese prices did. So look for another big cut in the M-W in February and March that will be reflected back to your milk check up to May. The M-W is already 79 cents lower than last year and $1.81 below its peak of $12.72 in November 1984.

So, if support price is down and the butter and cheese prices are down what's left -- the farm price. That of course hinges on the other three but cheese and butter prices more specifically. They may take a couple of months to get telegraphed to your milk check, but as you have read here many times in the past, if you want to know what's coming watch butter and cheese prices in the mid west. It takes only one month for the M-W to set your Class II price but two months for Class I. So, the big cut in Order 2 was a 24 cent drop in Class II to $10.94 in January and only a one cent drop to $13.89 in the Class I price. With a Class I utilization of 42.4 percent these made a blend or Uniform Price of $12.03 for Order 2 in January. That was only 18 cents less than last month but 73 cents less than last year. Very close to the difference of 79 cents in the M-W since last January.

Milk Production Up

Nationally, milk production is on the increase for the fifth consecutive month in December. This kind of increase mainly in milk production per cow is what's expected for all of 1988. That would make a total of 147 billion pounds or 2.6 percent higher than 1987. This is the reason that Commodity Credit Corporation purchases next year will exceed the five billion pounds of milk equivalent that triggers another 50 cent cut in the support price to $11.10 in 1989. Even the northeast may have production increases over 1987 but still below the 1986 level that started the interest in over order pricing here along with the 50 cent assessments and the 15 cent deduction for promotion. No one expects any change in the price support legislation so 1988 may set a ten year record of 12 consecutive months with no changes in the support price. The industry calls it price stability but at these prices some producers have other names. However, it does give processors and wholesalers an incentive to build up inventories without the risk of having them lose value from mid year support price cuts.

With production up and CCC purchases up the good news is that commercial sales should also be up next year. After three consecutive years of three percent increases in commercial sales everyone begins to wonder how long you can keep up the pace. You're now up to 139 billion pounds of milk equivalent in commercial sales. That was equal to your total production in 1983. Which means that you have increased consumption in four years to the point where, if you were producing at the same level as five years ago, there would be a national shortage.

Finally, on the up side you have feed prices that are expected to increase this year. The problem is compounded by lower milk prices making the milk price-feed price ratio lower than the record highs you enjoyed last year. It won't be disastrous but it will be enough to hurt producers who have been marginal on feed costs in the past.

Premiums Offered

As long as I'm enumerating the ups and downs in milk marketing I have to include the ups in premiums offered by handlers both cooperative and proprietary. I realize the cooperatives started the practice and proprietaries joined to stay competitive but, whatever the reasons, most producers feel that they should take them while they can and there's nothing wrong with that. How long the premiums last, however, may well depend on the reasons that started them.

Milk diversions have been started by RCMA and are attracting interest in dairy industry all over the country. Being watched mainly is the effect the diversions have on membership. How the handler reacts is as important to the success of the diversion for RCMA as the effect on the membership. If membership in RCMA is not increased as a result of the diversion then little has been accomplished. Since RCMA must collect the same premium from all handlers, the handler with the lowest RCMA membership among his shippers, lowers the premium for all RCMA members in the market. So, the principal goal of diversions now is to increase membership. This is a first for Order 2 producers and the industry is watching to see how you respond.

Changes For

Seasonal Incentive Plan

The major cooperatives in Order 1, New England and Order 2, New York-New Jersey have asked the USDA for a hearing to amend those Federal Orders to change the seasonal incentive plan from the present Louisville Plan to a base-excess plan similar to Order 4. With the Louisville Plan, deductions of 20 to 40 cents are made from your milk check in the spring and premiums of 30 to 45 cents are paid back in the fall. The base-excess plan provides an individual base for each producer each fall according to his production. The base can change from year to year. A base price and an excess price is paid to farmers individually rather than a uniform or blend price which is the same for all farmers.

This is not a quota or supply management program only a different seasonal incentive that may be more effective in encouraging producers to increase fall production above present levels and lower spring production. The important

Bedford Extension Assn. Annual Meeting

BY BETH GRAY

Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD — Recognizing change, adopting change and planning for additional change emerged as the theme at the annual meeting here Feb. 25 of the Bedford County Cooperative Extension Association.

Association President Thomas Wakefield of Bedford RD 4 applauded the efforts during the past two transitional years of James Weiler, currently interim County Extension Director (CED) and Regional Farm Management Agent. Weiler had returned to Bedford County from his regional position at Altoona when CED John Holbert retired in 1986. Weiler previously was an assistant agent in Bedford County. With the retirement last year of Home Economist and 4-H Agent Chrystle Wackerman, Weiler assumed additional duties.

The assignments changed again as Susan Fox in January was named dairy agent, and Richard Dale joined the County staff in February as agronomy and 4-H youth agent. Fox earlier served in Lawrence County and Dale, in Clearfield County. Weiler introduced the new agents to the nearly 100 persons attending the meeting.

The Association instituted change at the gathering as they approved new by-laws succeeding those adopted in 1984. The primary differences, according to executive committee member Daniel Smith of Roaring Spring RD 1:

—"Board members may serve no more than two consecutive terms. Members may be re-elected or reappointed after at least one year of absence from the board." Previously, board members could serve ad infinitum.

—"Ordinarily there shall be four program development committees...: agriculture, 4-H youth, family living, and community development." Until this adoption, the County committees had been limited to 4-H advisory and family living.

Smith explained that Extension associations across the Commonwealth were making an effort to attain some uniformity in their by-laws so that they could operate effectively within the regional and state Extension councils.

Speaking briefly, Regional Extension Director Harold Ott noted, "Extension in Pennsylvania and Bedford County has undergone a great deal of change (in the past year). You had to have a score card to keep track of what was going on." Ott expressed satisfaction that Bedford County now had a full Extension staff, the result, he pointed out, of a $5 million allocation from the State legislature. Wakefield added that, due to the allocation, Pennsylvania is the only state currently hiring Extension personnel. "We are in the forefront," Wakefield said.

Ott continued, "With change in staff, there will be change in Bedford's programs over time. We didn't replace people... We filled the staff and that will change programs" because different people bring different personalities and expertise to their jobs.

"We'll be doing more regional programming in the future," Ott forecast. "If we have expertise in Somerset, Cambria, Fulton counties, we'll bring those people here for a day. Likewise, I expect Bedford's people will share their expertise with other counties." Such regional programming will utilize resources most efficiently, he indicated.

Kenneth Corle, Roaring Spring RD 1 dairyman, was elected president of the association during the business meeting. Also elected were Dottie Bromley of Schellsburg RD 1, vice president; Joan Mann of Bedford RD 3, secretary, and Bonnie Foor of Everett RD 1, treasurer.

Fred Claycomb of Bedford RD 2 reported on activities and concerns of the regional and state Extension councils, noting, "Our aim is to get our thoughts and recommendations through to (Penn State) University people who are making (Extension) decisions."

Guest speaker Mary Grim, past State Extension Council president, gave credence to Claycomb's observation, saying that the councils were the conveyors of grass roots ideas and needs, and that University decision makers do, indeed, listen. For instance, the plan for regional programming, Grim said, came out of the state council.

With the councils made up of representatives from county Extension associations, their voices come from the most local entities, Grim indicated. "It's you people sitting here in Bedford County saying (these things) are important that makes Pennsylvania a leader among the nation's 50 states. It all begins in counties like right here." Grim urged, "We need your leadership. When you're called, please say 'yes.'" part now is that USDA wants your opinion on whether you're interested in such a change. If enough producers respond a hearing will be held. Just a note saying you're interested in a base-excess plan is all they're asking for now. In case you lost your letter from the Market Administrator just send your opinion to Deputy Administrator, Marketing Programs, USDA/AMS P.O. Box 96456, Washington, D.C. 20090-6456 by February 26.

The Milk Check

Whole Soybeans For Dairy Cows

BY DR. GEORGE F. W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

Dairy farmers may save money by using whole soybeans as a source of protein and energy in their concentrates. Generally, because of their fat content, no more than 500 pounds of ground beans should be used in one ton of mix. Higher amounts may have a laxative effect, make the ration less palatable and interfere with vitamin A use. Milk fat test may go up when feeding whole soybeans. Raw ground soybeans should not be used when the grain mix contains urea. The enzyme urease in raw beans reacts with the urea, freeing its ammonia. Cooked or roasted beans create no problem, since the urease has been destroyed, and are highly recommended if economical.

When does it pay to feed whole soybeans? Soybeans weigh about 60 pounds per bushel. Supplements and soybean oil meals are priced by hundredweight. Thus the cost of beans must be converted to a hundredweight price. Since 100 divided by 60 equals 1.67, multiply the bushel price of beans by 1.67 to get the price of beans per hundredweight. Add the cost of grinding and roasting the beans to this price.

The percentage of protein in soybeans and in protein supplements differs. To calculate the cost of a pound (or of 100 pounds) of crude or digestible protein from each source, divide the price per hundredweight by the percent of protein it contains. If, for example, the cost, including grinding, of 100 pounds of soybeans is $8, then $8 divided by 37.9 (crude protein in soybeans) is the cost of 1 pound of protein from that source. Multiply this figure by 100 to determine the cost of 100 pounds of protein.

Example comparisons of the cost of protein from various sources are shown in the following table:

	If the cost per bushel is ($1),	the cost per 100 lbs. is ($),	and if the crude protein content air dry is (%),	then 100 lb. of crude protein will cost ($)* in this feed,
Whole Soybeans	4.79(x 1.67)	8.00	37.9	21.11
Soybean Oil Meal	---	12.00	48.0	25.00
16% supplement	---	7.50	16.0	46.88
Cottonseed Meal	---	11.00	43.0	25.58

*The cost per 100 pounds of the protein source divided by the percent of its crude protein content times 100 equals the protein cost per 100 pounds from that source

Besides being a good protein buy, ground soybeans are also a source of low-cost energy. And by adding this energy to the ration, they further reduce costs.

Example comparisons of the cost of energy from the above sources:

	If the cost/100 lbs. is ($),	and if energy content in % TDN is,	then the cost of 100 lbs. TDN will be ($),
Whole Soybeans	8.00	87.6	9.13
Soybean Oil Meal	12.00	78.0	15.38
16% Supplement	7.50	68.0	11.03
Cottonseed Meal	11.00	78.4	14.03

How much does this save? Protein supplements such as those I've discussed usually supply about 320 pounds of crude protein in 16 percent rations. If 100 pounds of crude protein in ground soybeans (see the first table above) cost $21.11, then 320 pounds will cost $67.55. If the protein in soybean oil meal costs $25 per 100 pounds, 320 pounds will cost you $80. At this price, feeding ground soybeans would save you $12.45 per ton of feed mixed.

In the above example, the difference between the cost of 100 pounds of soybean oil meal and whole soybeans ($12 minus $8) is $4. It has been calculated that any time the difference between the price of meal and whole soybeans — raw or roasted — is $2.52 or more per 100 pounds in favor of whole beans, it pays to use beans.

EVALUATION TIME FOR YOUR FARM RECORDS

Virgil E. Crowley

1987 is now history and you are starting a new year. At this stage it is a year of promise and hope, with opportunities to improve both your business and quality of life. In order to take advantage of those opportunities you must be able to recognize them. You need to review your '87 records to help determine where the opportunities for improving your business exist.

Do your records provide you with that kind of information? If not, now would be the ideal time to set up a new record system or improve the one you have been using. What type of record system are you currently using a cash system, an accrual system, or a combination cash and accrual system? One of the latter two would be preferred. Regardless of which system is being used, the key is how you use the records you keep. If you are like most businesses and use records both for tax reporting and management decisions, then you may want to review your records to see if they are sufficiently complete. Are you really keeping a set of records, or only the financial transactions of the business? An accounting system keeps track of the financial transactions, a record system keeps track of the financial transactions and the factors that affected them. For example, the grain farmer might simply record 10,000 bushels of No. 2 corn sold on a specific date to company x for so much per bushel. The costs such as seed, fertilizer, fuel and labor required to produce the corn are also recorded. These are financial transactions and provide sufficient information for tax purposes. However, it is not enough information for management decisions. If the grain farmer in this example also had kept a field record which would show when the corn was planted, what varieties were planted, what the fertilizer applications were, notations concerning rainfall and temperature, the date harvested and yield per acre, then he would have a set of farm records. You could apply this same kind of detail to the livestock enterprise. For example, the dairyman only must record the amount of milk, dairy products and cull cows and calves sold. Again the costs of feed, labor, veterinary services, trucking, utilities and etc would be recorded. However, again the information provided is not enough for good management decisions. What were the feed rations, how much was fed to each cow, what quality of hay and silage was fed? What were the average pounds of milk sold per cow, percentage calf crop and days each cow was in lactation? Knowing what our financial returns are usually isn't enough information. We need to know what the cash flow of the business is, and what rate of return is being earned on the assets in the business, and what the return to our equity is.

Are your records sufficiently complete to provide the information needed to calculate these factors? Also, today, most financial institutions place a great deal of emphasis on profitability. The calculation of true profitability requires either an accrual record system or a combination cash and accrual system. There is one additional task that the operator should manage in the recordkeeping area, regardless of what record system is used. That task is the development of an annual cash flow projection. Because the cash flow is so essential to the survival of the business, it is important for every farm operator to learn how to make a cash flow projection for the farm business. The cash flow projection is an attempt to estimate as accurately as possible all cash that will be available to the farm business for the year, approximately during what periods of the year it will be received, and how much will be available in each period. The projection deals not only with cash that will be available, but also with how much cash will have to be paid out during the year. Again an attempt is made to estimate what month payments will be made and how much. Obviously a good set of records from past years is the best source of information for preparing a cash flow statement.

There is no question that developing a cash flow statement involves many uncertainties, but these uncertainties are no more difficult to deal with than are evaluation problems. A major factor that impacts return on assets and on owner's equity is the value placed on the assets. For example, what value is placed on the land, the livestock, machinery and equipment? The return on investment and return to owner's equity can be significantly influenced by the values placed on assets in the inventory. In all probability, cash flow projections carefully prepared can be as accurate as inventories. These areas of uncertainties are not likely to be eliminated, but that does not diminish the importance of records. It only emphasizes that record systems need to be evaluated frequently to determine if they are providing you with the information you need and want. With the changes in the tax law and increased emphasis on profitability there is no question but that the importance of records will increase in 1988. What better time to check yours than now?

All-Pennsylvania Holstein Winners

STATE COLLEGE — The All-Pennsylvania Awards are given to the top animals in each of eighteen classes from three major shows sponsored by the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. Animals shown at the Spring Show, one of five Regional Championship shows, and the Fall Championship Show earn points toward All-Pennsylvania honors. The animal with the most points earns All-PA honors.

In 1987 some 1250 head were shown at these major shows with 54 head earning All-PA, Reserve All-PA or Honorable Mention All-PA.

Six reasons why more Pennsylvania farmers use Reemay® than any other seedbed cover.

No tobacco seedbed cover gives you more advantages than economical DuPont REEMAY spunbonded polyester. Here's why

1. Low cost. REEMAY is one of the lowest-cost covers around
2. Less work. REEMAY is easy to put down. It's just-right weight makes handling easy. It stakes down securely, resists "ballooning" in wind.
3. Low risk. REEMAY is porous. Air and moisture pass freely through, reducing danger of too much heat build-up

4. Excellent growth and vigor. Tests by a major U.S. school of agriculture show that you get large, hardy plants, because distribution of heat and moisture is even with REEMAY seedbed covers

5. Maximum number of transplants. The porosity of REEMAY assures uniform wetting, fewer bare spots and even germination throughout the bed

6. Withstands the elements. REEMAY won't rot, shrink or mildew

This season, learn why REEMAY seedbed covers outsell all others in Pennsylvania. Order from your Farm Supply Dealer, today

FUEL INJECTION & TURBOCHARGER SPECIALIST

WINTERTIME PROBLEMS

The year 'round problems of water damage and carbonizing of the fuel injection system become more acute during the cold winter season. And, diesel engines now become exposed to another wintertime problem: Waxing and Gelling. Diesel fuel contains paraffin wax which develops into crystals as the temperature drops. When crystals begin to form, the temperature is at "cloud point." The pour point of the fuel is the temperature at which the crystals have now formed into a lattice-type pattern, restricting fuel flow. This is waxing and gelling, and it clogs filters and blocks fuel lines. POLAR POWER - THE ULTIMATE WINTERTIME TREATMENT - POLAR POWER combines the advantages of FUEL POWER and FLOW IMPROVER by preventing water damage, the growth of algae, and the carbonizing of injection system AND by preventing waxing and gelling — giving you the ultimate wintertime product. Improve Profit Cutting Reproduction Costs

BY PAT PURCELL

ROTHSVILLE — In today's dairy industry, farmers must be sharp business managers as well as intelligent dairymen. With milk price support cuts more production is not the road to greater profit. Greater profit must come from shaving dollars and cents off costs.

Throughout Pennsylvania many farmers continue to throw away dollars on non-productive animals by allowing calving intervals to stretch beyond 13 and 14 months and also by freshening first calf heifers at 26, 27 and up to 30 months of age. Freshening at 24 months gives farmers the greatest return on their herd replacement program which is one of the most costly programs of their farming operation. Freshening after that steals money from the farmers pockets.

Cutting costs can effectively be done by improving reproduction which was the topic of dairy meeting organized by Hutchison and Trayer Veterinary Associates, held at the Rothsville recently.

Bruce A. Beachnau, D.V.M. and Technical Representative for Upjohn Company, discussed the use and benefits of Lutalyse, which induces heat in cows. Used properly, assuming nutritional needs are met, Lutalyse, which is a natural prostaglandin, can be used to increase breeding efficiency by: keeping the cow herd's calving interval to 12 months; helping to breed heifers at a younger age, enabling the producer to schedule the freshening of one or several heifers and controlling the time they enter the milking herd.

Correcting reproductive problems can reduce cull rates. Also, conception rates resulting in fewer AI services. On an average herd size of 40 head studied every dollar spent returned five dollars. The labor and time saved by not watching for heat was not included and neither was the savings of a decreased cull rate with fewer replacements being needed. Considering this the savings to the producer could be substantially higher.

Freshening heifers at 24 months is the optimum schedule. According to the latest figures available, each month the animal is not bred costs the producer $50 to $80 per month for each non-productive animal. Although many producers claim to observe their animals closely and contend the animals missed heats. However, according to Beachnau, studies show that it was producers failure to catch the animals in heat and that only 10 percent of the animals were non-cycling. But nutrition and pathological disorders must be ruled out if a prostaglandin, like Lutalyse is to be effective.

Nutrition is top priority for first calf heifers and mature cows. If not fed a properly balanced ration, Mother Nature will shut down the heifers reproductive system prohibiting the animal from becoming pregnant until her own nutritional needs are met. The veterinarian's efforts are in vain if the animals are not getting the proper nutrition. The energy level is critical if the animals is to go into heat.

BLV and Salmonella

Dr. Brian Reed, D.V.M. of Hutchison & Trayer Veterinary Associates, discussed the latest information on the Bovine Leukemia Virus. New concerns about BLV are raising a lot of questions on its relation to the dairy farm operation.

BLV can only be spread by blood from the infected animal, so farmers should be careful when using gougin dehorning methods, removing teats, and using needles without sterilizing them before reuse. It is a cause of cancer in cows, but the disease does not mean that the animal will develop cancer. Less than one percent of infected animals develop cancer.

The disease will appear in three to four months after infection with a weight loss, enlarged lymph nodes, down cows, weakness in the back end, fevers and in decreased milk production. BLV is more critical to cattle breeders who export to the foreign market. Farms which depend on exports must prevent and control the disease. There is now mandatory testing for exports. Positive testing for BLV eliminates animals from exportation.

It may not be beneficial to every farmer to test. According to statistics, 30-35 percent of the animals in dairy regions are infected. The test is easily done through blood work and not expensive.

If herds are found positive embryo transfers can be used to cleanup the herd. It is most important to disinfect tools and materials after each dehorning, tattooing, removing extra teats. Any procedures must be scrutinized. Farmer should use disposable needles or rinse with sterile water.

Salmonella has been getting a lot of attention through the media recently and has aroused some unrest among consumers. It is a bacteria that can cause disease in many animals and people. It contaminates and lives the environment, is shed in milk and can be spread to animals and people, according to Reed.

Some of the symptoms of the disease are alarming because there are few. It can hinder the absorption of minerals, cause diarrhea or death in the more advanced stages. It is sometimes confused with Johnes. If caught early it is treatable. To prevent human contamination the milk must be pasteurized.

Using anti-biotics such as tetracycline in the feed can prevent other animals from contracting the disease, but will not cure the animals already infected.

Dr. Trayer reported that three herds within the area have dairy cattle dying from BLV and this is the highest incidence of BLV he has seen during his practice in the area. Disease increases as the number of animals increase per square foot.

Look at the difference atrazine on

Tops and roots control with no carryover.

Two or more pounds of atrazine for quackgrass can cost your dairy operation two ways. First, labeled rates of atrazine can only suppress quackgrass, not really control it. As a result, quackgrass will often come back within weeks of treatment, and year after year after that.

Second, as little as two pounds of atrazine used in any one of the three "corn" years before alfalfa has an almost 70% chance of causing carryover damage—even if you cut back later. Although the damage may not be obvious to the eye, this level of atrazine residue can cause an almost one third tonnage loss and a 20% stand reduction (published university data).

Ranger gives you true control with no carryover

Ranger® herbicide is a better answer for quackgrass. Ranger works differently than atrazine. Sprayed pre-plant before corn on emerged quackgrass tops, Ranger moves down through the plant to its roots and kills the entire root LEMASTERS — 1987 was an excellent business year for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, the organization's District 8 Director, Dwight Hawbaker of Greencastle, reported to members at the twenty-fourth annual District Meeting held February 17 at Lemaster Community Center. He said that Atlantic members supported their cooperative through growth in Technician services, increased unit sales and greater use of sires that transmit the highest genetics for herd improvement.

Mr. Hawbaker pointed out that Atlantic's benefits from being a partner in Federated Genetics include a wider selection of sires for members to use and income from semen sales in nonmember markets. He also reported that the cooperative's bylaws were revised to add areas being served to existing Districts and provide membership signup and representation in expanded Districts.

A narrated slide presentation by management representative Gary Heckman of Lancaster reviewed basic principles of cattle breeding and portrayed the strong genetic traits being transmitted by current sires. He pointed out that genetic levels have increased on proven sires while average semen costs are lower than one year ago. Mr. Heckman encouraged members to select sires primarily for production and to use Atlantic's mating program options which best fit their herd improvement needs.

During the meeting, ten area dairymen were honored for having high producing herds this past year. Receiving certificates of merit for their high Dairy Herd Improvement Association averages were:

Name	Cows	Lbs. Milk	Lbs. Butterfat
Paul A. Martin	156	15,802	533
Kenneth Lehman	53 5	18,803	654
Dennis Brcker	41 4	19,327	670

All herds were at least ten percent above the state average for milk or butterfat production and more than two-thirds of the cows are progeny of Atlantic sires. Awards were presented by Willis Ritchey, Atlantic's Field Supervisor for this area.

Members present voted for District representatives for the coming year. Election results will be announced in the next issue of the Cooperative's newsletter, since more than one meeting is held in most of Atlantic's 16 membership districts.

system. Because quackgrass grows mainly from these roots and not its seeds, Ranger can give you long-lasting control. And because Ranger does not build up in the soil it won't cause you carryover problems later like atrazine.

Use Ranger on quackgrass, and cut back atrazine

When you get control of your quackgrass problem with Ranger you can reduce atrazine to much lower rates for use on many other weeds.

Those lower rates will lessen the possibility of carryover damage. Ranger for quackgrass control. You can see the difference.

Repeal For Heifer Tax?

WASHINGTON, D.C. — It appears likely that Congress will act this year to repeal the so-called "new heifer rule" that has turned out to be a tax and bookkeeping burden to cattlemen.

On Feb. 3, Rep. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., and 33 cosponsors introduced legislation that would repeal the measure in the Tax Reform Act of 1986 that requires cattlemen to maintain records on the costs attributable to each animal, and dis-allows deduction of those costs until the animal goes into production.

Rep. Hal Daub, R-Neb., said the provision was put in to keep investors from "farming the tax code."

Although a repeal this year would be too late to cover 1987 taxes, the Dorgan legislation calls for the repeal to be made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1987.

Reprinted from the February 18, 1988 issue of "Drovers Journal."

Beef Decoupling

WASHINGTON, D.C. — USDA's proposed rule to permit the decoupling of yield and quality grading will give packers more fat-trimming options. Whether the companies will take advantage of the opportunities remains to be seen.

USDA Feb. 3 published a proposed rule to separate yield and quality grading. The action was in response to a petition from the National Cattlemen's Association and American Meat Institute.

Under decoupling, packers will be able to hot-fat trim carcasses on the slaughter floor. With yield and quality coupled, graders are unable to determine the yield grade if the fat has been removed prior to grading. Under current rules, if a carcass is graded, both the yield and quality grade must be determined.

Under the proposed change, a buyer, such as a retailer, would have the option of buying beef that is graded only for quality, or for yield; or both. It would make it easier to sell graded, trimmed beef.

Reprinted from the February 18, 1988 issue of "Drovers Journal."

Fat And Egg Weight

About 30 years ago, it was reported that corn oil in the laying ration resulted in increased egg weight. Since then it was found that the linoleic acid of corn oil was responsible for the increased egg weight. In this study, the above observations were confirmed.

Hens were fed diets differing in oil content, oil source, and linoleic acid concentration from 22 to 69 weeks of age. Egg size increased as linoleic acid content increased up to 2.75 g/hen/day. Further increases had no significant effect. Increasing the intake of readily absorbable oil without increasing linoleic acid concentration did not result in an increase in egg size. There were no differences in egg production or food consumption.

Comment: When pullets start laying and small egg size is a problem, increasing linoleic acid levels in the ration might speed the progression of egg size to attain large eggs at an earlier age.

Study - Response of egg weight to the inclusion of various fats in layer diets. R.H. Scragg, N.B. Logan and N. Geddes, Colburn-Dawes Nutrition Ltd., British Poultry Science 28:15-21 (1987).

Lebanon County Livestock 4-H'ers Honored

PRESCOTT — The night's festivities began with feasting on the fatted calf and swine and finished with a fanfare of congratulations for everyone at the Lebanon County Livestock 4-H Awards banquet.

The big winners were the club's outstanding members, being recognized for their involvement with and commitment to the club. Wendy Atkins and her brother, Danny, of Lebanon took home two of these honors with Wendy being recognized as the Outstanding Rookie Member and Danny being the Outstanding Junior Member. Joining them was 14-year-old John Risser who was named the Outstanding Senior Member.

Awards were distributed to winners of the Pen Decorating Contest and Swine Record Keeping Competition. Broiler and Turkey Talk by Forest Muir

Associate Professor of Poultry Science
Penn State University

Two articles in the November 1987 issue of the Journal of Poultry Science could have future implications on the method of providing supplemental heat to broilers. The first article presented the results of a series of experiments in which broilers were started on litter and provided with two different supplemental heating programs. All the broilers were placed on litter and the environmental temperature of the room was maintained at 80 F for the first 6 days. Supplemental heat was provided by two 250 W infrared lamps per pen. On day 7, the environmental temperature was reduced to 61 F and half the pens were maintained on constant supplemental infrared heat.

The other half of the pens were equipped with microswitches connected to a microcomputer that was capable of independently turning on the infrared lamps of each pen upon activation of the microswitch. Initially the birds' curiosity caused them to strike the switch. During the learning phase (day 7) each activation of the microswitch resulted in a reward of 1 minute of supplemental heat. During the data collection phase (day 8 and after) the reward period provided 4 minutes of supplemental heat.

Analyses of the data revealed no significant treatment differences in weight gain or feed efficiency. The chicks that were able to obtain heat by activating the microswitch only selected about 20 minutes of supplemental heat, were exposed to approximately three times as much supplemental heat without an improvement in feed efficiency. The results indicate that when given a choice, chicks do not voluntarily choose a consistently warm environment. However, weight gain and feed efficiency are not different from chicks provided with constant supplemental heat.

The second article describes a series of experiments in which

7-day-old broilers were randomly allocated to three treatments. The environmental temperature of the room was kept at 61 F and the three treatments consisted of continuous supplemental infrared heat, intermittent supplemental infrared heat (4 min on, 2 min off, 10 cycles per hour) and intermittent supplemental heat from microwaves (2 min on, 4 min off, 10 cycles per hour).

The results revealed no treatment differences in body weight gain during the 14 day experiment. The feed efficiency for the chicks receiving continuous or intermittent infrared heat did not differ significantly. However, feed efficiency of the chicks receiving infrared heat was superior to the chicks receiving intermittent microwaves as the heat source. This research is some of the first reported using microwaves for brooding chicks. As this research continues and different microwave heat cycles are investigated, the feed efficiency of chicks brooded on some microwave heat cycles may be equal to the performance of chicks brooded on infrared sources.

The results of the research presented in these two articles indicate that future broiler and turkey flocks may be brooded in a management system which allows the birds to select their own level of supplemental heat. The supplemental heat for these flocks could possibly be from microwave sources.

Beautiful Farmsteads...

A Positive Story

The Northeast is rightfully proud of its dairy industry. Agriculture is our number one industry, with milk its major commodity. Realizing dairying's importance to the area's economy, the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program (NEDFBP) was incorporated November 1983 to honor attractive dairy farms with the Dairy of Distinction Award.

The award program is based on the concept that these attractive farmsteads will enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk, stimulate milk sales and encourage public support for the industry.

The NEDFBP has divided the Northeast into regions, with approximately the same number of farms per district. Each district is under the jurisdiction of a local committee responsible for organizing the judging, awarding the Dairy of Distinction signs and publicity. The program also operates on the regional level through the NEDFBP Board of Directors, which oversee and provide support and guidance to the local communities. All active dairy farms within the region covered by the program are eligible to apply for a Dairy of Distinction award. Applications, available from the program's area secretary, the local committees and other sources such as agricultural publications, must be submitted by April 15 of each year.

Farm judging takes place in the month of May and is based on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds and surroundings. This year in the Pennsylvania Program in addition to the district team of judges that does the roadside inspection, the sanitarian for your cooperative or dealer-handler will be asked to be part of the judging process. Winning farms receive a colorful, aluminum 18x24 inch Dairy of Distinction sign to be placed on the farmstead near the roadside so passers-by can recognize the farm as a Dairy of Distinction.

Dairy of Distinction farms will be judged every year to ensure they maintain the excellent standards required for the award.

This exciting program promotes agriculture at its best. Broad public awareness of the program is vital to its success and the impact will increase as more consumers see Dairy of Distinction farms and associate them with dairy products sold in stores.

The Daniel Jones Farm, Stoneboro, Mercer county, was one of the nearly 100 farms so honored in 1987.

The Dairy of Distinction program is a cooperative, widespread industry effort. Sponsors include cooperative extension, agricultural cooperatives, State Departments of Agriculture, the Grange, Farm Bureau, producer groups and agribusinesses. Dairy of Distinction is a product of people who care about the Northeast dairy industry.

The NEDFBP extends an invitation to anyone interested in promoting beautiful dairy farms. Dairy of Distinction depends on people — particularly farmers who are proud of their farms and want to help the product they produce.

We love the Northeast — its lakes, hills, valleys, mountains, cities...and the beautiful Dairies of Distinction!

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION DISTRICTS

Pennsylvania Is Divided Into These Districts. Approximately 10 Dairy Of Distinction Awards will be made each year in each district. There is no cost to you. You receive a nice metal sign to put at the end of your lane and a certificate. In addition Lancaster Farming will present this year's winners from Pennsylvania with a color photograph made from a color slide. This year in the Pennsylvania Program in addition to the district team of judges that does the roadside inspection, the sanitarian for your cooperative or dealer-handler will be asked to be part of the judging process. If your farm is a winner be sure you or your district committee takes a color photograph of your farm and sends it to Lancaster Farming in time for the awards ceremony.

Maryland Farmers Involved In Bay Cleanup

Maryland's Agricultural Cost Share Program continues to reduce agricultural nonpoint source pollution to the Chesapeake Bay as more farmers sign up every month, according to Amin Yazdanian, Program Administrator of Maryland's highly successful program.

The Agricultural Water Quality Cost Share Program has been in operation since 1983. Funding was significantly increased through the Chesapeake Bay Water Quality Loan Acts of 1984, 1985, 1986, and 1987. Additional funds are made available by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The state program provides up to 87.5 percent of the total cost of installing site-specific best management practices designed to control agricultural nonpoint source pollution, with limits of $10,000 per project and $25,000 per farm.

Designed to encourage farmers to install best-management practices on a voluntary basis, the cost share program targets those watersheds most likely to contribute agriculturally related nonpoint source pollution to Maryland waters.

"I am very proud of Maryland's farmers and the way they have taken the lead and responded in the voluntary effort, and I appreciate the things farmers are doing, and their commitment to restoring the Chesapeake Bay," said Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr.

Governor William Donald Schaefer is also pleased with the progress being made by Maryland's Agricultural Water Quality Cost Share Program. "This kind of cooperation is just great," said Schaefer. "Good things happen when everybody works together on a tough job like this," said the Governor at the annual Agricultural Dinner held at Martins Crosswinds in Greenbelt on February 4.

Since July of 1983, the MDA has received over 5,000 cost share applications. As of February, 1987, cost share funded projects are helping to save approximately 316,000 tons of soil per year, and are treating 2,500 total tons of animal waste per day. About $10 million in bond funds administered by the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) have been expended for completed projects. Another one million in federal funds provided by EPA has been paid out to farmers.

Halteman Named Conservation Farmer

CREAMERY — Arlin Halteman of Kulp Road, Harleysville was recently named by the Montgomery County Conservation District as Outstanding Conservation Farmer for 1987. Arlin also had the number-two dairy herd in the county for 1987.

Halteman's conservation accomplishments include: 165 acres of stripcropping, several thousand feet of storage terraces, diversions, and gradient terraces. Halteman has converted more than 2,000 feet of gullies into grassed waterways. Six structures for water control have also been built to stabilize erosion. Arlin credits much of his farmer's abilities to his dad, Elwood, whose other son Harold happened to have the number-one dairy herd in the county for 1987. Elwood taught Arlin the value of crop rotation and good land management. This is evidenced by most all the rented land being farmed also being under good conservation.

Arlin's philosophy is that "you only get out of the land what you put into it." No-till has also played a part in Halteman's conservation system. He likes to no-till beans after barley, and has been very successful at it. He says "the barley stubble not only helps to hold the moisture, but also prevents soil from washing away."
